Doctors Wield Fear —Lloyd

REGINA (CP)—Premier Woodrow Lloyd said Friday organized medicine in Saskatchewan is using "fear and threat of discomfort and illness to their patients" as weapons in the dispute between the province's doctors and the government.

He said the "patients have been pushed into the front line of the battle without regard for their needs."

Saskatchewan Attorney-General Robert Walker slipped quietly into Victoria Friday and met privately with B.C. Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Mr. Bonner declined to disclose the purpose of the meeting.

His remarks were included in a statement replying to a petition presented Wednesday at a protest rally here by the Saskatchewan Keep Our Doctors Committee. The committee had asked for the suspension of the controversial Medical Care Insurance Act, which took effect July 1, to pave the way for a negotiated settlement.

RESUME DUTIES

Mr. Lloyd's statement said the committee should urge the doctors to "resume their duties as healers of the sick and pursue their indubitable rights to present their views through normal channels."

"Nothing that the government has done has compelled the doctors to close their door. It was they who made the decision to

SELWYN LLOYD

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan turned a third of his 21-man cabinet out to pasture Friday in one of the most extensive cabinet shuffles since he assumed British leadership after the 1956 Suez crisis.

Selwyn Lloyd, 58, lieutenant of both Macmillan and former prime minister Anthony Eden, was ousted from his post as chancellor of the exchequer.

Other ministers who ended up without jobs were:

OTHER JOBS

Harold Watkinson, 64, defence minister; Viscount Kilmuir, 63, lord chancellor; Sir David Eccles, 59, education minister; Lord Mills, 73, minister without portfolio; Dr. Charles Hill, 59, housing minister, and John Maclay, 57, secretary of state for Scotland.

BUTLER DEPUTY

Richard Butler, once a rival of Macmillan's for leadership of the Conservative party, gave up the home secretary's portfolio. He was formally named deputy prime minister, the first in the Macmillan era, and continues to be responsible for overseeing central African and Common Market affairs.

SUCCEEDS LLOYD

Reginald Maudling, 45, formerly colonial minister, succeeds Lloyd as treasury chief. He has had a decade of ministerial experience and an extensive knowledge of economic affairs.

Duncan Sandys, the Commonwealth relations minister, adds the colonial portfolio to his task, a further indication that Britain's age of empire is drawing to a close.

QUIT CABINET

Peter Thorneycroft, who quit Macmillan's cabinet in 1958 after a quarrel over financial policy and returned in 1960, moves up a rung to become defence minister. He formerly held the aviation portfolio.

Henry Brooke, 59, Lloyd's second in command at the treasury assumes Butler's former responsibilities for Britain's internal security at the home office.

The sweeping cabinet changes were considered inevitable after the series of by-election reverses suffered by the Conservative government.

'Simple' Russians Harass Test Foes

* * *

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Several Russians who described themselves as "simple Soviet citizens" tried to break up a prohibited demonstration by a dozen Western anti-nuclear campaigners in Red Square Friday.

But the Westerners, mostly members of Britain's Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament, held their ground and argued with crowds of Russians for two hours in a scene believed unprecedented here since the 1917 Soviet revolution.

* * *

A single Soviet policeman stood by without interfering — except to show one of the Russians where to take two banners seized from the demonstrators.

The Westerners, here attending the Soviet-sponsored peace congress, went ahead with the demonstration after they were flatly refused permission at a last-minute meeting with Soviet officials.

* * *

They walked quietly from their hotel, the Moskva, to Red Square 400 yards away and began unrolling their banners near the Lenin Mausoleum.

A burly Russian woman of 50 grabbed two of the banners, declaring she was a "simple Soviet citizen," and handed them to two young Russians who also said they were "simple Soviet citizens."

* * *

The demonstrators hastily rolled up their third banner.

A young Russian man asked what was written on the banners. Someone told him the banners protested against both American and Soviet nuclear tests.

"I agree," the young man said — and another Russian began discussing the issue with him.

By this time several hundred Russians were gathered around the Westerners in animated discussion. NBC photographer Frank Bourgholtzer tried to film the crowds but was interrupted by "simple Soviet citizens."

The banners read in English and Russian: "We condemn Anglo-American tests," "we demand no more Russian tests," and "all people act against all tests."

Victorians Chart H-Blast Result

Space Secret Solved Soon?

Victoria scientists have written the first chapter in a story that is expected to unlock the secrets of magnetic storms in the outer atmosphere high above the earth's surface.

Within seconds of a U.S. high-altitude hydrogen blast over the Pacific early Monday, sensitive instruments in the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory here recorded a short-lived artificial "storm" in the magnetic field surrounding the earth.

TINY VERSION

Bernard Caner, in charge of magnetic studies at the observatory on Little Saanich Mountain, said last night records showed the storm lasted 2½ minutes. It was a miniature version in size and duration of the big disturbances caused by solar flares.

In Ottawa, Dr. Kenneth Whitham of the Dominion Observatory hailed the achievement of the Victoria scientists.

PIECE TOGETHER

Similar reports from observatories in other countries are eagerly awaited, said Dr. Whitham, in order to piece together a story of how these magnetic storms originate and how they spread.

"This will tell us a great deal scientifically," he said.

CAREFUL CHECK

Advised in advance by U.S. authorities of the nominal time of the test blast high over Johnston Island, Mr. Caner and his staff made a careful check of the sensitive magnetometer set to record magnetic disturbances.

The machine was commercially made to specifications by Dr. Paul Serson of the Dominion Observatory in Ottawa.

TIME RECORD

It was installed here in 1957 and recently modified locally for greater sensitivity. The machine automatically records magnetic fluctuations on paper together with an accurate time record.

Scientists here had grown weary of frequent postponements in the high altitude tests, so at about midnight Sunday—two hours before the latest time for the blast received from U.S. authorities—they made a final check and went home to bed.

WITHIN SECONDS

The blast was triggered on schedule—records here show the magnetic disturbances caused by the high-altitude shot came "within seconds" of the nominal time—and the machine worked perfectly, giving what was described as a "clear record."

Mr. Caner said the magnetic storm was "larger than expected."

SINCE THE LAST

But he added the Victoria observatory had no previous experience with high-altitude tests since the last U.S. series was held several years ago before the magnetic section was in existence here.

However, reports of the magnetic storm from other observatories around the world, expected in Ottawa during

Officials Agree

Market To Link 30 More

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — British and Common Market officials agreed Friday that 30 British dependencies should be associated with the European Economic Community if Britain becomes a member, sources close to the negotiations reported.

The officials were said to have prepared a report to this effect that will be submitted to a ministerial meeting of Britain and the Common Market July 25.

DEPENDENCIES

The dependencies for which association was considered to be the most satisfactory solution are:

1. Africa and the Indian Ocean: Kenya, Gambia, Mauritius, Zanzibar and the Seychelles.

2. Caribbean: Barbados, the Windward Islands (Dominica, Grenada, St. Lucia, St. Vincent), the Leeward Islands (Antigua, Montserrat, St. Christopher-Nevis - Anguilla), British Guiana, British Honduras, the Virgin Islands, Cayman Islands, Turks and Caicos Islands.

TWO OCEANS

3. Atlantic Ocean and Antarctica: The Bahamas, Bermuda, Falkland Islands, St. Helena and dependencies and British Antarctic territories.

4. Pacific Ocean: Fiji, Tonga, Pitcairn, Solomon Islands, Central and Southern Line Islands (uninhabited), Gilbert and Ellice islands and New Hebrides.

Commonwealth territories that now are dependent but soon will become independent were considered as though independent for the association purposes. These include Jamaica, Trinidad and Uganda.

'Military Clash Provoked'

Explosion Any Moment Red China Warns India

PEKING (Reuters)—Communist China declared Friday its long-standing border quarrel with India "has developed to a point where an explosion may be touched off at any moment."

A Chinese foreign ministry spokesman made the warning in giving reporters copies of a Peking note to New Delhi charging that "India aims not only to assert its territorial claims on China by armed forces but also deliberately to provoke a military clash on the border so as to create an anti-Chinese atmosphere."

NINE MORE

(In New Delhi meanwhile India declared Friday that Communist China had set up nine new outposts in the Ladakh area of Kashmir in recent weeks.

(An Indian protest note said that "aggressive and provocative" Chinese military activities in the area created the threat of a clash "at any moment.")

Meeting Soon?

Algeria Rivals May Heal Rift

ALGIERS (Reuters)—Algerian leaders appeared Friday night on the verge of calling a meeting to settle the rift that has split the provisional government.

The meeting was expected to consist of either a session of the National Council (parliament) or a big congress of the National Liberation Front.

The decision on the meeting was expected to be made within the next 48 hours by a conference of the political and military leaders of Algeria's six military districts.

ONLY SOLUTION

The council meeting has been proposed by dissident Vice-Premier Mohammed Ben Bella as the only solution to his dispute with the Algerian provisional government headed by Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda.

Ben Bella's faction claims Ben Khedda's government lacks support from the 70-member council which is the legislative body of the Liberation Front which led predominantly - Moslem Algeria to independence from France.

Children

Beatings Big Killer

CHICAGO (UPI)—Beatings by parents may cause more deaths among children than leukemia and as many as auto accidents, the American Medical Association said yesterday.

A nationwide survey reported in a recent issue of the AMA journal showed physical abuse of children is "a frequent cause of permanent injury or death."

CAUSE OF DEATHS

"It is likely that it (the so-called 'battered child syndrome') will be found to be a more frequent cause of death than such well-recognized and thoroughly studied diseases as leukemia, cystic fibrosis, and muscular dystrophy," a journal editorial said, "and it may well rank with automobile accidents . . ."

A team of physicians stated that of 302 child-beatings reported by 71 hospitals over a period of one year, 33 of the victims died and 85 suffered permanent brain injury.

447 CASES

The doctors said a survey of 77 district attorneys revealed 447 such cases in a one-year period. Of the 447 children, the survey showed, 43 children died and 29 suffered permanent brain damage.

The doctors said the child-beating victim usually is under 3 years of age, he shows signs of neglect and malnutrition but may come from high as well as low socio-economic background.

COMMON FACTOR

A common factor among offending parents regardless of background, they said, is "a defect in character structure which allows aggressive impulses to be expressed too freely."

"There is also some suggestion that the attacking parent was subjected to similar abuse in childhood," the doctors added.

The physicians urged doctors to be alert to the possibility of parental mistreatment and make greater use of X-rays.

Red Tests Must Be Last

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union served official notice Friday it feels free to conduct another series of nuclear tests. It said the United States tested first and the Soviet Union must be the last.

The warning, in an official Tass news agency statement, came only four days before the 17-nation disarmament conference meets in Geneva.

The official statement did not say when Russia might resume nuclear testing.

Douglas 'Proud' Of B.C. Chance

REGINA (CP) New Democratic Party national leader T. C. Douglas said Friday night he will move to Ottawa in August but indicated he would consider moving to British Columbia should he be elected in a by-election.

Mr. Douglas said in an interview he would be "proud" to be a candidate in British Columbia. Earlier Friday, Erhart Regier announced he was going to resign his Burnaby-Coquitlam seat to allow Mr. Douglas to stand in a by-election.

WAS DEFEATED

The NDP leader was defeated in the June 18 election in a bid for the Regina seat.

Mr. Regier's announcement was made at a caucus of 19 NDP members of Parliament in Winnipeg, which Mr. Douglas also attended.

On his return here, Mr. Douglas said he had always preferred to represent Saskatchewan, but he would be proud to be a candidate in the west coast province.

He planned to spend the weekend in Regina then attend the CCF provincial convention in Saskatoon next week.

Higher Yet Next Week?

HONOLULU (UPI) — A U.S. bid for the highest nuclear explosion in history may be made Wednesday at Johnston Island, it was learned Friday.

Sources said preparations were under way for the fourth firing of a missile-borne nuclear device from Johnston.

Actor Jailed As Addict

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actor Billy Gray, who portrayed the teen-aged son of the Anderson family in the Father Knows Best television series, drew a six-month sentence Friday for possession of marijuana. Superior Judge Edward Brand also placed Gray, 24, on probation for three years.

Island Yachtsman Lost On Atlantic Voyage

HALIFAX (CP) — RCAF search and rescue said last night shipping between here and Bermuda has been asked to keep a look-out for the 40-foot schooner Carinae which left Chester, N.S., June 15 bound for San Diego, Calif.

The vessel, manned by Ivo Thiergarten of Campbell River, B.C., and Bill Johnson of England, was to have called at Bermuda and San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Search officials here said the two expected to be in Bermuda 10 days after leaving Chester. They are believed to have been delayed by headwinds, they said.

The two-masted vessel has a radio receiver but no transmitting apparatus. She has an auxiliary engine but relies mainly on sails.

U.S. Doctor Flees Arrest

WINNIPEG (CP)—An American doctor left Saskatchewan Friday, declaring he had been faced with arrest if he remained any longer.

Dr. Gerhardt Beck of Jacksonville, Fla., who had been working as an interne at the hospital in Leader, 50 miles west of Regina, said he had been told by the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons he would be charged with practising medicine in Canada without a licence unless he got out immediately.

REACHING OUT

At an airport press conference Dr. Beck accused the college of "reaching out for every technicality they can find to deprive the citizens of every privilege they are entitled to."

He arrived in Saskatchewan July 3, two days after the province's medical care insurance program went into effect.

WITHIN TRENDS

"The college said that by practising as an interne, they did not think I was keeping within the trends of the law," Dr. Beck said.

He said he had offered to practice "under the jurisdiction of the college" but his services were not accepted. He also offered to write the college's examinations but was given no definite reply.

REGINA (CP) — Premier Woodrow Lloyd said Friday the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons' treatment of Dr. Gerhardt Beck of Jacksonville, Fla., "will not enhance Saskatchewan's reputation."

'AGREED TO WRITE'

"I am informed that Dr. G. W. Peacock, registrar of the college, interrogated Dr. Beck by telephone and threatened him with arrest. Dr. Peacock then visited Leader. He told Dr. Beck that he would have to write examinations. Dr. Beck readily agreed to write whatever examinations the college required."

UNTIL NIGHTFALL

The premier said he was told that Dr. Peacock, "in a final phone call Thursday again threatened legal action against the doctor, giving him until nightfall to leave the province."

SASKATOON (CP)—The Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons said Friday Premier Lloyd's statement on the case of Dr. Gerhardt Beck "is full of half-truths and outright misrepresentation of the facts."

"The registrar did not cajole or threaten Dr. Beck," it said.

'We'll Guard British'

LONDON (CP)—The Saskatchewan Medical Care Insurance Commission said here Friday it will do everything possible to protect the reputations of British doctors who go to Saskatchewan to provide emergency services.

George Taylor of Saskatoon, legal member of the insurance commission, told a press conference the provincial government also will do whatever is possible to safeguard the reputation of the British medical profession in general.

Taylor made plain he feels the undertakings are necessary because of difficulties encountered by two British doctors who flew to Canada to fill the gap caused by the withdrawal of services by doctors in Saskatchewan.

Taylor told reporters the government will provide legal and other aid to help contest unfounded allegations.

Medical Plan Unscathed In Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The administration-backed compromise old age health care plan escaped unscathed yesterday from a second Republican effort to alter it drastically in the Senate.

The Senate defeated a substitute plan by Republican Sen. Prescott Bush, which would have authorized direct subsidy payments to the elderly for private health insurance purchases. The vote was 75 to 5.

The Senate earlier turned down another optional plan offered as a substitute for the compromise program of hospitalization-nursing care for the aged financed through social security.

Victorians Tackle Secret

the next few months, would provide valuable information on the movement of electric currents on the outer atmosphere high above the earth's surface.

VARIOUS THEORIES

Dr. Whitham said there are various theories on the way these currents are set up and how they move.

Magnetic storms normally are caused by shock waves of electrically-charged particles sent out by disturbances of the sun. These ionized particles are sometimes called space plasma—a sort of low-power cousin to the stronger cosmic rays.

SEVERAL TIMES

He said the disturbance recorded at Victoria was several times larger than the normal quiet variations in the magnetic field but was "100 times smaller than the ones from a large-scale solar explosion."

Moreover, it lasted only a short time compared with solar-caused disturbances which usually lasted several hours.

SAME EFFECTS

The thermonuclear blast was, in effect, "a large-scale shock wave generator" which produced the same effects as explosions on the sun, including visual light and X-radiation as well as electrically-charged particles.

'Doctors Use Fear'

withdraw services. It is they who can restore their services."

The premier renewed a pledge to continue the "sincere efforts of the government to secure a satisfactory settlement with the college of physicians and surgeons."

Meanwhile, counter and counter-charges were tossed in the wake of a government announcement that a one-man royal commission will be established to investigate the policing activities of the College of Physicians and Surgeons.

HAS REPORTS

The government said it had reports the college was using its policing powers as a "weapon" against doctors who do not support the college boycott of the government's compulsory medical care insurance plan.

The college is the licensing body for all doctors practising in Saskatchewan.

The government is bringing in doctors from the United Kingdom to provide medical care during the college boycott, which is a withdrawal of all but emergency medical care.

IMPLIED SLUR

Dr. E. W. Barootes, a member of the college council, said Friday the government announcement was an implied slur on the integrity of college registrar Dr. George Peacock.

As registrar, Dr. Peacock is responsible for investigating doctors' credentials before they are licensed.

Dr. Barootes said at a press conference: "I think it is an attack on Dr. Peacock's integrity. It's tragic."

New Light On Saanich Policy Aim

Saanich council Monday night will discuss a change of policy which could lead to a program of street light installations throughout the municipality. It would be financed as a series of local improvements.

John Cowlin, assistant engineer, said last night the works committee has already approved the proposal, which he believes would eliminate poor lighting on residential streets and at intersections.

NEW PLAN

Present policy states that residents of an area must petition council to have lights put in as a local improvement. Under the proposed policy, council would go ahead on its own unless a majority of area ratepayers petitioned against having lights installed.

Under either circumstance, ratepayers in an area would be assessed for installing street lights in the area. Mr. Cowlin said cost to a ratepayer would run $5-$10 a year over a 10-year period.

SAANICH PAYS

But once the lights are installed, the municipality pays for maintaining and operating them.

The engineering department will actually be asking council for a go-ahead on the first of a series of areas for which installation of lighting is planned.

Printer's Funeral Scheduled Monday

Funeral services will be held Monday for a long-time Colonist printer who died yesterday.

Joseph R. Hibberson, 75, came to Victoria from St. Anne's-on-the-Sea, England in 1910 and immediately joined the Daily Colonist.

He retired in 1935 after 45 years of service with the newspaper.

Survivors are his wife Amy at home, 1313 Amphion Street, three sons, Robert E. and Leonard J. of Victoria and George E. RCAF at Cold Lake, Alta. and one brother in England.

Service at Hayward's Chapel, conducted by Rev. William Hills, will be followed by cremation.

Teachers Are Still in Demand!

The increasing number of young British Columbians looking for a sound education will continue to tax our best teaching resources to the utmost.

There will always be a demand for capable teachers in both elementary and secondary schools. However, at the moment the demand is greatest at the secondary school level particularly in Home Economics, girls' Physical Education, Commercial subjects, Counselling, French, English and Music, as well as in other areas. If you are a qualified teacher not at present actively teaching, I earnestly suggest you apply for one of the positions being advertised in the classified columns of the metropolitan daily newspapers.

If you are planning a career, remember that education needs the services of alert, intelligent, professionally minded young people. You will do well to consider the teacher education programme available either at the University of British Columbia or at Victoria College.

Minister of Education.

Time Will Ease Headaches Of Skull-Fracture Sufferer

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: My three-year-old son fractured his skull 13 months ago. X-rays and an electroencephalogram showed no brain injury but he still has frequent headaches, although his reflexes, balance and alertness are normal.—Mrs. E. J. T.

While a head injury is always potentially serious, it is quite possible time will take care of this little fellow's headaches.

If not, then another electroencephalogram would be in order, or perhaps X-rays with the introduction of air which would reveal any later damage.

NOTHING ELSE?

In the absence of demonstrable injury — and the reflexes, balance and alertness are a good sign—there may be nothing else to do except relieve pain when it is severe. Pain relievers probably containing a little caffein often help immensely.

The foregoing applies to adults, too.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: I've been told a sore that doesn't heal, especially around the mouth, tongue or lips, might be a warning sign of cancer. What about a small cut on the lip that heals immediately but leaves a tiny almost invisible spot or lump under the surface?—Mrs. J. H.

The sore that does not heal may be one with an infection, or it may be subject to repeated irritation which prevents healing, yet have nothing to do with cancer.

Nor is it likely for a cut that doesn't heal readily to be malignant. Cancer doesn't start from an injury of that sort.

The lump could be scar tissue or a small cyst. If any lesion does not heal and the "sore" persists or enlarges over a matter of weeks, it warrants a biopsy to be sure.

* * *

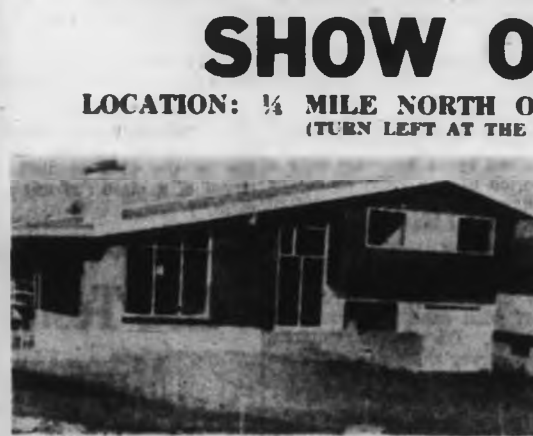

Dear Dr. Molner: What does venenata mean? It was used in scalp dermatitis venenata and I can't find the word in my dictionary.—Mrs. T. H.

Dermatitis venenata means inflammation of the skin by contact — in this instance, of the scalp. Source of the trouble could be anything from certain plants to chemicals, cosmetics, household compounds, possibly even some item of clothing.

Canadians To Build New Plane

WASHINGTON (CP) — A Canadian company Friday was awarded a multi-million-dollar United States Army contract to develop an improved type of tactical transport plane.

The army announced that under a three-way cost-sharing arrangement it will put up $7,000,000 to have de Havilland Aircraft Limited of Downsview, Ont., produce four of the new planes for testing in 1964.

These will be known as the Caribou II, a likely successor to Caribou I, the light transport plane which the U.S. Army has been buying from de Havilland for the last few years. An official said the army has purchased "close" to 200 of them.

The popular Caribou is a piston-driven, cabin-type plane for hauling soldiers and equipment over rough terrain. The Caribou II will feature a bigger fuselage, will be powered by two turbine - propeller engines and will be powerful enough to carry cargoes of three to five tons.

Balloon 'Eyes'

MOFFETT FIELD, Calif. (AP) — Four high-altitude balloon flights across Canada—to determine effects of cosmic rays on monkeys and other organisms — will be attempted soon by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, it was announced Friday.

The first flight may be launched at any moment, a spokesman said. The flights will provide basic research on the radiation problems and will be applicable to manned space flight.

At 128,000 feet, the payloads will be exposed to about 50 per cent of the primary cosmic radiation effect that exists in deep space.

The balloons are 300 feet in diameter, and 380 feet tall, and are the largest ever used for such work.

They will be launched in Labrador, near Goose Bay, fly for more than 2,000 miles and be recovered near Edmonton 55 hours later.

TCA Wants Merger

EDMONTON—TCA president Gordon McGregor said Friday TCA and Canadian Pacific Airlines should merge to solve the financial difficulties of both.

However, in Vancouver, a spokesman for CPA said the company wants to remain independent.

"A merger is neither practical or necessary," he said. "These financial difficulties are temporary a manifestation of the shock the industry experienced through introduction of the jet."

'Bingo Illegal If Regular'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Burnaby magistrate levied fines against a drive-in theatre and two men Friday.

Magistrate C. C. Bell said in his judgment:

"Where bingo is operated regularly, whether once a week or once a month, it cannot be considered occasional."

Liberals' View:

Stormont Vote Key To Crisis Opinion

OTTAWA (UPI) — Liberal party circles are attaching major importance to Monday's deferred election in the riding of Stormont where they are optimistic of winning a comfortable victory.

The contest is recognized as the first test of public opinion since the Diefenbaker government was forced to disclose the emergency which confronted the Canadian dollar and to resort to partial austerity measures to meet it.

It is widely felt that failure in Stormont would be embarrassing for the Liberal leadership.

Conservative candidate Grant Campbell, who represented the riding in the last House, is recognized in Ottawa political circles as a popular figure whose re-election prospects would normally be good. But he is regarded as facing an insurmountable handicap in the dollar crisis.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker is further being criticized in political circles for his failure to go into the riding personally.

The possibility of Social Credit playing a key role in the riding's result is considered by most political observers to exist more in theory than in practice.

Regina Lawyer Wins on Appeal

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan Court of Appeal has quashed a charge of conspiracy to defraud against Regina lawyer Dr. M. C. Shumiatcher, Walter W. Luhoff of Saskatoon and Thomas S. Fawcett of Ottawa.

The court, in a unanimous judgment filed yesterday, found that the information containing the charge did not give sufficient detail of the alleged offence.

APPEAL LAUNCHED

The appeal was launched by Dr. Shumiatcher after the information was laid Jan. 3 and the three were charged in magistrate's court in Saskatoon. The Saskatoon hearing had been adjourned pending decision on the appeal.

Although the appeal was made only by Dr. Shumiatcher, legal circles said the ruling also applies to Luhoff and Fawcett because the three were charged jointly under the same information.

The court's decision was on the form of the information and not on the merits of the allegations. The way is still open for the crown to file a new information.

Norman L. Mathews of Toronto, special crown prosecutor for the case, said in a telephone interview on the judgment: "Presumably we will have to lay more complete information."

Britain's Position

IT IS APPARENT that the British government is determined to take a new and firmer line against outside interference in the internal affairs of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

In the first major government policy statement made on the subject of the federation since the UN General Assembly debate on Rhodesia, Mr. R. A. Butler, minister in charge of Central African affairs, has rejected the Assembly resolution calling on Britain to redraft the present Rhodesian constitution.

Speaking in London earlier this week, Mr. Butler had this to say: "The political record of the federation is good—whatever is said at the United Nations."

Nor did he stop there. He went on to criticize the pressure exerted by the UN on Britain to break up the federation—pressure guided by the Afro-Asian bloc and backed by the Communist nations. "Even," he said, "if our task is made harder by the intemperance of the United Nations we must make them understand our intention that the races should live together and that one race should not lord it over another."

In a direct reference to the activities of other African countries in the UN, he said: "Education (in the federation) covers 85 per cent of the African population. This is a record unequalled in Africa as a whole, which no one in the United Nations has any right to criticize . . ."

Mr. Butler's words, though no doubt distasteful to the Afro-Asian group, will do much to bring stability to the present shaky political situation in Central Africa. In Rhodesia itself it had been feared in many quarters that Britain would abandon her responsibilities in the face of UN opposition.

Through Mr. Butler she has now given her word that she will not.

Cheering Acceptance

THE FEDERAL public works department's quick acceptance of a Victoria request to carry out an engineering survey of the Inner Harbor and Causeway is cheering, for it strongly hints readiness on the part of Ottawa to co-operate in the harbor improvement intended, and much needed, as the sequel.

That the yacht basin in the Inner Harbor needs dredging and needs it badly is obvious to anyone who sees it when the tide is low, and perchance sniffs it. Dredging normally would have been undertaken moreover by the federal authorities before now. The unlovely silt, however, shores up the Causeway; the city engineering department believes that if the harbor were dredged under existing circumstances the wall would bulge and the road would sag.

The survey which Ottawa now is to make will determine what would be involved in providing alternative support for the Causeway in the form of a lower promenade built on fill behind steel pilings.

This would be a great improvement, both as an attraction in itself as a pedestrian walkway and in providing better mooring facilities for yachts in conjunction with the deepening of the water.

There can be little doubt that it would be expensive, but federal assistance would bring it more easily within reach of the city's purse and certainly would elevate it to the status of a high-priority project, and therefore Ottawa's willingness to co-operate, even in this "austerity" period, is most heartening.

Something Different

THE session held this week in Moscow of the World Peace Congress has turned out to contain some contrast to the usual gatherings to which the Russian capital is accustomed. These are generally marked by tacit approval of everything the Soviet Union does or says.

This time it was different, with some home truths being sounded.

There was open disagreement among the delegations. One American condemned Russia's nuclear tests of last fall as "brutal and threatening." Even if he was half-shouted down he got his point across. British delegates argued loudly among themselves while Russian onlookers stood amazed, not being used to such independence of spirit.

Our own Dr. Brock Chisholm, also, spoke as bluntly as he has done here and every place else on the subject of nuclear war, and warned his listeners it was fallacy to think one part of the world can win security at the expense of others.

Capping it all perhaps was the public parade of the British group in a ban-the-bomb demonstration, which certainly would surprise the Muscovites and which Soviet authorities obviously permitted with hesitation. The spectacle of protest against government action, since Russia was thus indicted as well as the West, was something new.

One hopes it all had a salutary effect. The weakness of peace moves in the West has been that they were one-sided and left the Soviet Union free from equal persuasion within its own borders. A start has been made. The Russians got a taste of democratic freedom of opinion. There is a chance it may do them good.

Very Trusting

PRIME Minister Nehru takes his country's territorial disputes with China very calmly, much more so than he does any action by the West which irks him. India is at odds with Peiping over several border incidents but he seems careful not to appear upset.

The latest development of this kind is his reaction to the encirclement of an Indian outpost by Communist Chinese troops in a disputed corner of Kashmir. Some sources regard this as of menacing intent but Mr. Nehru says there is nothing serious about the situation.

The Chinese will have to withdraw "some time or other," is his rather trusting comment.

The Indian prime minister manages to retain a faith the West finds hard to achieve in dealing with Communist regimes which take overt action that seems on the face of it to be provocative.

Eve of Nationhood

Caribbean Dawn

By MICHAEL FABER from Kingston, Jamaica

NO nation is an island unto itself — even within the Caribbean, and the spate of new nations arising from these seas is being watched carefully by other countries. Each government will be trying to assess the effect upon its own foreign policies of the birth of these Caribbean countries.

Jamaica gains her nationhood on August 6 and Trinidad on August 31. In the glow of good feeling that has accompanied their smooth path to independence, Britain is likely to sponsor the applications of both countries to membership of the United Nations. The governments of both countries will accept such sponsorship.

Such is the pace of Britain's decolonization that, by the end of next year, these two new countries may well be followed by a third. This newly created nation will be the federation of the "Little Eight," consisting of Barbados and the seven small islands of the Leeward and Windward chains. These islands had found themselves very much alone after first Jamaica and then Trinidad decided to opt out of the larger federation created by Britain in 1958.

* * *

Sir Alexander Bustamante, the 78-year-old premier of Jamaica, has at least made his government's intentions clear. "We are pro-American . . . We are anti-Communist. We belong to the West, and we'll stay with the West," he said during his recent visit to the United States.

Asked whether his outspoken anti-Communism and his refusal to allow Russian sailors to land in Jamaican ports might induce Russia to veto Jamaica's application for UN membership, "Busta" was equally cavalier. "I don't care what they do," he said, "I've done it and I'd do it again."

A similar reaction was obtained when he was told that some UN members were upset because he was willing to let the United States reoccupy the air base in Jamaica held by American forces in World War II.

"Jamaica stands between Castro and the Panama Canal," he replied, "I don't care whether the UN likes it or not."

* * *

The Jamaican government has also announced that the country will seek to remain in the British Commonwealth and will apply for membership of the Organization of American States. But these twin ambitions are causing some concern to the governments of other States in South America.

For Jamaica, if she is allowed to join the Organization, will be the first country to combine membership of this body with Commonwealth status. Some other American countries such as Argentina, which claims the British occupied Falkland Islands, and Guatemala, which claims British Honduras, seem opposed to allowing any Commonwealth nation into the Organization of American States until their disputes with Britain herself are settled.

There is also concern lest the admission of Jamaica set a precedent hard to resist when British Guiana becomes independent and applies for admission. The prime minister of British Guiana, Dr. Cheddi Jagan, and his wife, Janet, are commonly believed to be Communists, or at least Communist sympathizers.

In contrast to Sir Alexander Bustamante, Dr. Eric Williams, the able young premier of Trinidad, has kept his objectives rather to himself and has acquired something of a reputation for anti-Americanism in the process. He has criticized Britain's lease of the base at Chaguaramos to the United States and has said he believes in joining "interest groups" but not "blocs."

But, in practice, Dr. Williams' intellectualism is likely to lead him to much the same sort of policy that Bustamante adopts intuitively. Trinidad, like Jamaica, stands to gain from membership of the Organization, and from a share in President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress.

* * *

Moreover, it is easy to read too much into Dr. Williams' reputation for anti-Americanism. Such a reputation is rather an advantage in Central American politics. It is often forgotten that Dr. Williams was Dr. Ralph Bunche's deputy as professor at America's Howard University and was originally the U.S. nomination for deputy-chairman of the Caribbean Commission.

Another significant indicator of Dr. Williams' foreign policy can be gleaned from a recent remark in Paris. He spoke then of an eventual West Indies Common Market, grouping islands of French, British and Dutch background in close co-operation with the European Economic Community.

Within the Caribbean, his idea of a broad Common Market is what will attract the most attention. But one should not miss the significance of his willingness to be associated with the European Community at a time when the Community is under attack by the Russians and when many of the African new states are likely to reject association.

It is likely then that Jamaica — rumbustiously — and Trinidad, with more discretion, will both tend to align themselves firmly with the West. One might even add that as both countries possess efficient governments set on rapid social reform their people are much less likely to want to follow the "alternative course" plotted by Castro's Cuba than are the restless populations of some of Central America's other small nations.

English Only

By ANDREW EWART from Geneva

THE broadside fired by the Federation of British Industries against firms who use only English in outgoing correspondence with foreign customers was well-aimed but not heavy enough, according to British diplomats and agents in Switzerland.

A survey by FBI of 500 major firms showed two-thirds as English-only letter-writers, and two-fifths of them had no one capable of writing letters in the language of foreign customers.

Officials of the British Chamber of Commerce in Basle, however, put the number of English-only firms corresponding with Switzerland at 95 per cent. Many of them insist on quoting prices in pounds and refuse to make any effort to convert technical specifications into the metric system.

"They believe that English is the universal language and they take the view that every foreigner should learn English in order to do trade with Britain," said one Basle official.

In contrast to this insular attitude, German firms—often Britain's main competitors — provide literature in both French and German and conduct their correspondence in three languages, the third being Italian. Naturally, the Swiss customer prefers to be wooed in his own language.

According to British diplomats in Berne, the most serious handicap for British firms is the failure to translate technical and operating manuals.

"While most Swiss executives understand and speak English," they say, "the chap on the ground does not—and he has to work the machine which Britain sells to his company. Unless he is provided with an operating manual in his own language, how can he service and maintain the equipment?"

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

NATURE has a compassion of its own that is humanity of a sort. It does not allow its creatures to grow old, crippled and diseased. Each creature has to be its own doctor. There are few physicians in the wild.

But there are police, known as predators, whose task is to see that no creature suffers unduly from famine, injury or disease. There are always the prowlers on land, in the water and in the air, whose function in nature is to put the sufferer out of its misery quickly, humanely; and then eat it, as the fee.

This is not to say that the predators eat only the old, the crippled or diseased. To keep alive in order to perform their function, the predators have to eat plenty of healthy specimens too, if they can catch them. But the biologists point out that it is naturally far easier for the predaters to catch the weak, from whatever cause.

And it is this function that is the valuable service hawks, wolves, weasels and all the great company of meat eaters perform in order to weed out all but the nimblest of other creatures.

But it is difficult to eradicate the prejudice of man, the greatest of all predators, towards his fellow predators.

Kashmir Struggle

By FLETCHER REYNOLDS, Telegram News Service

UNITED NATIONS — By all economic, geographic, cultural, religious and racial considerations, Kashmir should be a part of Pakistan. However, the situation in the disputed territory today has Indian forces occupying two-thirds of Kashmir with Pakistani troops hanging on to the remaining third.

To understand why this inequity exists it is necessary to go back to 1947, when the British government granted independence to the two major population groups of the Indian subcontinent, the Hindus and the Moslems. In setting up Pakistan (the Moslem state) and India (the Hindu state), Britain naturally made sure that British-administered Moslem areas went to Pakistan and British-administered Hindu areas to India.

However, dividing the Indian subcontinent into Moslem and Hindu nations had certain difficulties. One of these difficulties was the fact that one-third of the subcontinent was composed of some 500 principalities, which were ruled by maharajahs and princelings. These principalities were virtually independent in all respects except one—they all gave feudal allegiance to the British, who had found it quite easy to rule a large part of the subcontinent through these despots.

Kashmir was such a state.

* * *

In 1947, Kashmir became a subject of controversy between Pakistan and India. Because the population was Moslem, the area should have gone to Pakistan.

India, on the other hand, had a claim to Kashmir if the Hindu maharajah decided to accede to India. Since the Maharajah of Kashmir was the supreme head of state of Kashmir, he legally had the right—in the view of the British—to bring Kashmir into India in spite of the wishes of his Moslem subjects.

When it became obvious that the Hindu maharajah was tending toward union with India, a bloody revolt took place on the part of the Moslems in Kashmir. According to the Times of London, some quarter of a million Moslems were "systematically exterminated" by the maharajah's forces.

In October, 1947, Pakistani tribesmen who lived on Kashmir's border began pouring into Kashmir to help their Moslem compatriots fighting the Hindu maharajah. More violence followed, and the maharajah, who was in danger of being defeated, called for aid from his fellow Hindus in India. The Indian government only would give such aid if the maharajah would formally turn all of Kashmir over to India.

Indian troops began pouring into Kashmir while Nehru maintained that he was only interested in driving out all foreign invaders and allowing the Kashmiri people to decide their own future. Following the Indian invasion, regular Pakistani troops crossed the Kashmir border, and a small but bloody war developed between India and Pakistan.

* * *

Peace was restored by a UN Security Council decree for a cease-fire, which is still being maintained today, albeit uneasily. The Security Council also passed resolutions calling for the withdrawal of all foreign forces and for a plebiscite to allow the Kashmiri people to decide their own future. India ostensibly agreed to both points.

Pakistan, however, raised the question that a fair plebiscite could not take place if India still continued to administer the territory and maintain troops there. In the interests of impartiality, Pakistan requested that neutral troops be brought in to supervise the plebiscite.

India refused to accept neutral troops in Kashmir. Nehru's position was that Kashmir, by virtue of the maharajah's accession, was a part of India, and that India had to supervise the plebiscite.

* * *

Since 1947, India has gradually changed its position on the question of a plebiscite. Today Nehru and Krishna Menon say that a plebiscite is out of the question because Kashmir is a part of India.

Pakistan is not only anxious to see that the UN Security Council resolutions are carried out and that the Moslems of Kashmir be allowed to determine their own future, but the Pakistani government now fears the Kashmir problem may again blow up to the detriment of world peace.

Pakistani's fears are based on two possibilities:

1. That India may try a Goa-type invasion to get back the third of Kashmir held by Pakistan.

2. That Moslems in Kashmir will start another revolt, and that Pakistani tribesmen will again come to their aid as they did in 1947. The situation could draw Pakistani regular forces again into Kashmir to protect the Moslems from the Hindu Indian forces.

Ottawa Report

Ready for Election

By ARTHUR BLAKELY

COLLISION COURSE: Liberal informants scoff at reports that the party is anxious to avoid an early general election and is ready to shore up the battered Conservative government whenever necessary during the first session of the new Parliament until mid-1963. They point out that Opposition Leader Lester Pearson has carefully avoided any public statement which would commit his party to such a course. Officially and publicly, the Liberals are ready for another general election at any time. And the sooner the better.

* * *

ON THE ROCKS?: The Federal government's new austerity program has them thinking in Prince Edward Island. Islanders, reportedly, are fearful that the long-awaited $105,000,000 causeway, which would link the island to the mainland, may be an early casualty of the big cutback in federal spending. The causeway, pledged by the Conservatives, is credited with the clean sweep which the Conservatives scored in Canada's smallest province in the last election.

* * *

SOCIAL SECURITY: Seventy-seven of the 90-odd MPs who were defeated in the general election won't be eligible to draw parliamentary pensions ($3,000 a year for life). To qualify, an MP must serve in at least three Parliaments and have contributed $240 per parliamentary session. Ineligible receivers, however, are entitled to the return of the money they've paid in. And should they ever return to Parliament, they would again become eligible on the same old terms.

* * *

TROUBLE SHOOTER: The post-election appointment to the Senate of the Hon. Harry Willis assumes new significance following the death in a car accident of Senator William R. Brunt, deputy government leader in the upper chamber. Senator Brunt, veteran of many a smoke-filled room, was Prime Minister Diefenbaker's trusted confidante, friend and political trouble shooter. He was also the man who, because of his countless contacts in the province, was expected to know what made Ontario tick. Senator Willis, an old associate with much the same kind of background, will help fill the gap.

* * *

LIAISON: The Conservatives, it is understood, have launched a quiet recruiting campaign in the field of commerce and industry for a capable and trustworthy spokesman who might enter politics and the cabinet. Though business, like labor, has a big stake in government, men like C. D. Howe, with the recognized standing plus a readiness to enter politics, turn up rarely in Canadian politics.

* * *

COMMISSION: For all that the Coyne affairs and dollar devaluation were major election issues and that Canada has just been placed on an austerity diet, sessions of the Royal Commission on Banking and Commerce have been about as quiet and uneventful as any in recent memory. The few spectators who have turned up have been, for the most part, professional observers. The general public has been nowhere in evidence.

* * *

TAXES: Prime Minister Diefenbaker has made no move as yet to implement his undertaking to set up yet another royal commission—this one to be charged with a thorough re-examination of Canada's antiquated and punitive tax system. Such a study has long been urged by tax experts, business, industrial leaders and by interested provincial government bystanders like ex-Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario. Mr. Diefenbaker endorsed the idea at the beginning of his election campaign.

Doctors' Strike

(From The Observer, London)

THE withdrawal of services from sick people by the Saskatchewan doctors is more than a strike; it is mutiny. Not only are they trying to force the Provincial Government to scrap its Medical Care Insurance Plan, for which a mandate had been obtained in the 1960 elections, but they are also throwing away all the best traditions of what used to be called "a noble profession."

Saskatchewan has become a battlefield for the whole North American continent in the big medical organizations — the American and Canadian Medical Associations—against "socialized" medicine. To this extent the Saskatchewan doctors have become the dupes of the leaders of the medical reactionaries. Doctors in Britain have threatened strike action on two occasions since the war in the heat of the moment though now many are volunteering to go to Saskatchewan to provide care for the deserted patients.

If one believes, as many still do, that medical care is a commodity like any other that should be subject to the laws of the market, then the doctor, conceivably, can regard his services as a bargaining counter. The cloak of humanity is dropped and the patient, like the consumer in every strike, suffers. Then the famous definition of the functions of the doctor must be altered: "To comfort, to relieve often, to cure sometimes" —and to strike occasionally.

Little California Girl Seattle's 4,000,000th

SEATTLE (AP)—Attendance at the world's fair passed the 4,000,000 mark Friday and a pert little eight-year-old blonde from Whittier, Calif., was ticketed as No. 4,000,000.

Christine Graham arrived just a week before the halfway mark in the fair's 180-day run. Total attendance has been estimated at 9,000,000.

Send Auditors—Bennett

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Bennett Friday challenged Liberal leader Ray Perrault and Vancouver's two daily newspapers to bring in a chartered accountant from anywhere in North America to check the provincial government's financial statements.

In a telephone statement to the CBC, the premier said statements made recently about B.C.'s financial status by Mr. Perrault, the Sun and the Province are completely false.

Mr. Bennett said the Queen's Printer will have the financial statements ready about July 20. He said they will show the province had a surplus of capital and current accounts of more than $10,000,000 for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1962.

He also said provincial crown corporations have shown a combined profit of more than $20,000,000 for the same fiscal year.

B.C.'s finances, he added, are in better shape than those in any other part of North America.

"I challenge the Sun and Province and Mr. Perrault to bring in an independent auditor to check the statements and to put up or shut up for once and for all," Mr. Bennett said.

Underworld Trades In Madness Drug

CHICAGO (AP)—Two doctors warned yesterday that there is a black market in a powerful drug that can make people act as though they were insane.

The drug, LSD-25, can cause hallucinations and reactions resembling schizophrenia.

Stingless Bomarcs Move Into Quebec

OTTAWA (CP) — Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles have started to move into the RCAF base at La Macaza, Que., officials disclosed Friday.

By late this fall, missiles will be resting on all 28 launching pads at La Macaza. However, as in the case of the Bomarcs on the 28 launching platforms at North Bay, Ont., they would not be fired because they have no warheads, nuclear or conventional.

PRIVATE VIEW

Earlier this summer, some officials here had expressed privately the view that the United States might not supply Bomarcs for the $7,000,000 La Macaza base because the Canadian government still declines to accept defensive atomic warheads for them.

However, Prime Minister Diefenbaker has indicated strongly that Canada will not obtain nuclear weapons in peacetime. It would be ready to accept them quickly in event of war.

Washington, by moving Bomarcs into La Macaza, has indicated it is prepared to accept this position.

Magistrate Dismisses Dog Charge

Charge of allowing dogs to run without a leash in the downtown area, laid against Benjamin Richard Eddison, 716 Margaret Street, was dismissed yesterday because of a technical flaw in its wording.

Magistrate William Ostler pionted out in city court that the city's pound and animal control by-law required dogs to be on a leash, in charge of a "competent" person.

The word "competent" had been omitted in the charge.

Newsstand Owner

Smut Charge Laid

John Dirom, proprietor of the Horseshoe News, 1231 Government Street, was charged in city magistrate's court yesterday with selling obscene literature.

The Crown's case was touched off by an unnamed citizen's complaint against a pocket book entitled Virgins No More, allegedly displayed at the Horseshoe News.

MORE SPECIFIC

A. B. Russ, counsel for the magazine dealer, asked the Crown to be more specific about the allegedly obscene parts of the book.

"I would apply to postpone the plea, ask a remand and ask that the charge be elaborated," said Mr. Russ. "The book comprises some 150 pages of small print. I have read it in an attempt to isolate the . . ."

LITTLE LONGER

Prosecutor Angus Smith asked if citing the page numbers of allegedly obscene matter would be enough.

"I would ask your honor a little longer than usual to do this," Mr. Smith said. "It would mean re-reading the book."

"Mr. Smith, can you re-read the book this weekend?" asked Magistrate William Ostler.

VERY LONG?

"I was going to ask 14 days, your honor."

"It must be a very long book," the magistrate said.

"It's not a question of scanning it, your honor . . ."

"Have you any objection to a two-week adjournment?" the magistrate asked.

VERY HELPFUL

"It would be very helpful to us," said Mr. Russ.

The case was remanded to July 29 for plea—providing the prosecutor has read through it by that time.

Bad Cheques Work Again

Victoria's current bad-cheque epidemic continued yesterday when two Safeway stores, in James Bay and on Quadra Street, reported cashing "no account" cheques for $134.23 and $122.34.

Police are seeking "a dirty-looking man in working clothes" who cashed the cheques.

They purported to be payroll cheques of a construction company.

LETTERS to the Editor

To be considered for publication in whole or in part letters must be on subjects of general interest, not more than 200 words in length, and, if signed with a pen-name, must be accompanied by the writer's name and address.

If there is one particular thing that has handicapped Canada in the past 10 or 12 years, it has been unemployment of too heavy a percentage of the labor element; the chief topic, too, in the last election, each political party assuming they and they alone had the solution.

I would like to ask any authority how can this unemployment picture be changed when the union leaders of plumbers, painters, carpenters, etc., seem to influence their followers toward staging a strike for more and without any doubt, these high and still higher costs of our products cannot help but aggravate an economic condition that caused this austerity program . . . .

On the Wrong Foot

The Saskatchewan doctors have always expressed a desire to negotiate their differences with the government, and it would seem that some of the opinions expressed at a distance are not placing the blame for the controversy in the proper place.

The doctors naturally do not consider themselves as being a union or on strike; and the manner in which they have arranged for emergency care and attempted to deal with the government clearly support their contention. However, the corollary is inescapable.

The government is attempting to force upon a medical group conditions of practice to which they strongly object. They ask for an amended medicare plan.

The government refuses to negotiate. Obviously this same government would not dare to attempt imposition of regulations or wage rates on any group from which it draws support; and I feel that many union members will not agree with the whole course followed. They cannot escape the thought that, in other circumstances, the doctors being brought in from Britain would be called scabs, who, in some cases, might get their skulls cracked.

The Saskatchewan government should get onto the right foot.

Prosperous Times

Despite Mr. Lester Pearson's vicious pre-election propaganda and the dollar devaluation and exchange situation so grossly magnified by the Liberal and opposition parties, the fact is that today the average Canadian (including those in the pseudo "labor" category) rides a wave of greater financial prosperity than ever before. During my 50 years in Canada (most of that time under Liberal administration) there have been periods of shattering depression and serious unemployment. I can recall no period when money, employment, luxury housing, automobiles, televisions, refrigerators and expensive gadgets were more universally enjoyed . . .

Why then accuse the Conservative government of failure? Mr. Lester Pearson has come forward with no better plan of government either before, during or since the recent election campaign. He promised, if elected, to appoint a "brain trust" to iron out the nation's pseudo-problems. If Mr. Pearson had discovered such prodigies in the field of economics why did he not have them out as Liberal candidates? And why were the bright ideas of these great economists not expounded to the Canadian public? . . .

The underlying trouble in Canada is that political parties are primarily concerned with partisan interests, to the exclusion of the national interest which is secondary in the feverish struggle to oust the government no matter how satisfactorily that government may be performing.

Wall St. Buys Gold Shares

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market absorbed profit-taking on a four-day advance without undue excitement. Prices settled irregularly lower as trading slackened.

General Motors was the most active stock, unchanged at 49⅛ on 51,800 shares. American Viscose was second, rising 2⅛ to 56½ on 47,700 shares as merger rumors were revived.

International Business Machines dropped 2¾ of its recent rebound. Du Pont was off 2⅛, Chrysler 1¼, and Kennecott 1.

The gold mining shares rallied again, this time on the basis of a decline in U.S. gold holdings to another 33-year low. Homestake rose 2¼ and Dome Mines 1.

Violamic Spurts

TORONTO (CP) — Speculatives continued to hold the spotlight.

Biggest price rise went to Violamac Mines, which Thursday reported finding copper on its property near Timmins. The stock jumped 85 cents to $2.83 after earlier going as high as $2.95. It traded 818,000 shares.

New Kelore traded more heavily—936,000 shares—gaining 3½ cents to 16½ cents. Raglan rose 16 cents on a volume of 265,000 shares.

In the main list, losses dominated, with banks weakest. Montreal and Royal both fell a point, Toronto-Dominion ½ and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce ¾.

Other losers included Imperial Oil, down ⅝, Walker-Gooderham, off ¼, Bell Telephone, down ¾ and Algoma Steel, down ⅛.

Among base metals, International Nickel fell ⅝ and Consolidated Mining and Smelting ¼, while Noranda rose ⅛ and Falconbridge ⅛.

Trading in western oils was extremely quiet as Calgary and Edmonton advanced ¼. Golds were paced by Dome's gain of 1⅝ to 33⅝—a 1962 high.

Kootenay Moves Up

VANCOUVER — Prices were fairly firm with few changes. Strong in the mining section were Kootenay Base Metals at .49 and Magnum Copper at .42.

Montreal Bonds

MONTREAL (CP) — Bond prices were slightly easier in all sections.

Long-term Canadas and provincials were off ⅛ to ¼ and short-term Canadas were easier by a nickel to 10 cents. More recent issues of corporates were off ¼.

Slim Dollar Trims Tourism

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP)—Tourists from out of state are pouring into Washington at a rate that doubles last year's pace, but fewer Canadians are entering.

A drop in Canadian traffic was blamed on "the dollar exchange rate and the 'see Canada first' advertising campaign being conducted by the Canadian government."

JAPS WIN CONTRACT

Six Japanese steel manufacturing firms have won a contract to supply Indian railways with 56,160 tons of steel plate for use in building railway coaches. It is Japan's biggest export order so far this year.

Canada, B.C. Bonds

U.S. Wants to Buy

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Despite the continuance of the 15 per cent withholding tax, the higher interest rates now available are again attracting foreign capital into Canada.

When Finance Minister Fleming announces the terms of his two new medium and long-term bonds Monday, it is expected the $150,000,000 being offered to the public will be quickly snapped up, and investment dealers say they have had inquiries about the new bonds from U.S. sources.

B.C. GOES TO U.S.

Latest guessing is that the government bonds will be issued at a discount and will have a 5½ per cent coupon to yield just under 5¾ per cent over a 15 to 20-year term.

The renewed interest of U.S. investors is also reflected in a borrowing of $15,000,000 in U.S. funds by the B.C. Toll Highways Authority. It is due to be repaid Jan. 14, 1963, and the interest rate is 4¼ per cent.

The ability of B.C. to borrow this money in the United States will come as a shock to political opponents who have been declaring the B.C. government's policies had closed the door to foreign investment in British Columbia.

BUILDING STARTS RISE

Building starts in the Greater Victoria area still are running about 15 per cent above those a year ago, according to a report by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation for the first half of the year.

Up to June 30, Victoria area starts were 788 against 672 a year ago. Completions also were sharply higher at 609 against 337 and under construction were 1,076 against 884.

The increased starts in 1962 were shared by single unit and apartment blocks. Single dwelling starts rose to 462 from 425 and apartments to 316 from 247 units.

PIPELINE DOES WELL

Western Pacific Products, the oil pipe between Fort St. John and Kamloops which went into operation at the start of the year, has been one of the features of stock market trading in the past week.

Westpac common shares have risen to $16 from $14 on expectations that the company in its initial year may earn more than $1 a share.

Grain Markets

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices were irregular in moderately active trade towards the close.

With reports of lack of rain and unfavorable crop conditions from the prairie grain belt general buying was in evidence early in the day.

In later trading, there was some selling in all grains with further reports of a rain forecast on the prairies.

Colonist Classes Next Week

Kick Motor—Swim Ahead

By MARGIE NAYSMITH

Next week we're going to start the motor at the Colonist free swim classes.

During the second lessons we've been learning how to glide through the water and now it's time to kick the feet and propel the boat.

★ ★ ★

A good number of boys and girls have mastered their breathing and it's obvious a lot of them practised hard. But there are still quite a few who need to work on it some more.

We separated the youngsters who were having trouble with their breathing and they got along fine.

★ ★ ★

Most of the breathers now can glide and the others will catch up soon.

I always try to learn the names of as many of the children as possible. It means something to them. They know you are interested.

★ ★ ★

While one of my assistants calls the roll I stand by and listen, trying to place names with faces. I haven't an especially good memory but find if I put my mind to it I can remember the names of most of the children.

The other day at Elk Lake a little girl was standing near me on the beach.

"How are you today, Marie?" I asked. On hearing her name, her little eyes just lit up.

Next to Marie was another little girl whose name I thought was Barbara. Just to make sure I asked her.

"Oh, just call me Buckwheat," she replied.

★ ★ ★

Buckwheat is the little Negro boy in the Our Gang comedies.

"In that case," said Marie, "You might as well call me Car 54."

Polo Comeback Seen for City By Ardent Fan

The age-old game of polo is making a comeback in Victoria.

"I can't think of a better place for it," said Dr. W. V. Powell, president of the newly-formed Vancouver Island Polo and Riding Club.

"Every winter I play at Santa Barbara, the Mecca of polo in the U.S. It's wonderful in the winter but very hot in the summer."

COULD ATTRACT

Dr. Powell feels Victoria's moderate summer climate could attract Santa Barbara players here.

"Polo was played a lot in Victoria before the war. I believe there were six or seven teams then," he said. "We'd like to see the game revived here."

In April, the club's 12 active members put down a full-sized polo ground near the Patricia Bay Highway and Island View Road.

BUILT STABLES

They have also constructed stables and will build more when the demand grows.

A unique feature of the local ground is its Bermuda grass, imported from Yuma, Arizona. This is the first time such grass has been planted in Canada.

"It's excellent for a sports field," explained Dr. Powell. "It grows into a thick mat. A ball will stay teed up on it and, as a result, will run smooth and straight."

POLO REBIRTH

The rebirth of polo in Victoria was Dr. Powell's vision. An ardent polo enthusiast, he first became interested in the game when a boy in Dublin, Ireland. When he came to British Columbia to practice, he made regular visits to Santa Barbara.

In 1960 he played on the U.S. team which toured Australia and New Zealand.

BIG AND SMALL

"I was impressed by the fact that practically all towns in New Zealand, big and small, have polo grounds where the people congregate on Sunday afternoons. It's a real social occasion."

Local polo will start in a small way. Because three of the club's members have never played the game, beginners' classes will be given them.

On Sunday members of the club will play each other at the grounds starting at 3 p.m. Within the next three weeks a team from Portland will play a tournament game with the local enthusiasts.

Teams from Seattle and Yakima will also play here through the summer.

Navy Officers Fined $1,300

HALIFAX (CP)—Four navy officers were fined a total of $1,300 by a disciplinary court martial investigating the movement of liquor with a customs value of $105 from bonded stores aboard the frigate New Waterford while she was in Sydney, N.S., for a refit.

The stiffest fine, $500, was assessed against Lieut. Robert D. Cruickshank, 34, of Vancouver.

Lieut. E. G. Whitehouse, 40, of Dartmouth was fined $400 and Acting Sub-Lt. J. O. Jenkins, 28, of Dartmouth and Lieut. J. C. Cowie, 32, of Waterloo, Ont., were each fined $200.

Lighter Fight Kills Boy

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two boys, 13 and 16, were playing together when an argument started over a cigarette lighter.

The 16-year-old, Thomas Tavella, said it was his. So did his younger playmate. The tussle became more violent and finally Tavella was pushed through a plate glass window.

Slashed by the jagged pieces of glass, Tavella died yesterday from loss of blood.

LONDON — Band leader Brian Fredericks, hired to play Sunday at a Hertfordshire nudist camp, said, "We are to play soothing music while the nudists laze in the sun. There will be no twisting."

Private Hospital Planned

A $200,000 private hospital is planned for a three-lot site on Hillside Avenue.

Application to have the site rezoned was made at city hall yesterday in a letter from Mears and Whyte Oak Bay Realty Ltd.

FACING SOUTH

Signed by J. L. P. Mears, the letter said depth of the site "will allow the hospital to be set well back from the road, leaving ample room for attractive gardens, facing south, and sheltered from the prevailing westerly wind . . .

AS CAN BE

"The intended private hospital will contain as many private, semi-private and ward beds as can be placed in close co-operation with the civic and provincial departments concerned . . ."

Application to have the land rezoned—it is now zoned for single family dwellings — was made on behalf of W. H. Dalziel.

Rain Dance Works —A Little

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—The Onondaga Indians, who claim their rain dance never fails, performed it on their reservation south of here Wednesday night.

Thundershowers brought .11 inch of rain to the area Thursday.

Farmers said the rain was not enough, however, to break a prolonged drought.

The rain dance involves throwing water on one another, saying prayers, sprinkling tobacco and releasing an eel into a stream.

Disease Spreads

ROME (AP)—The UN Food and Agriculture Organization said Friday Europe "is seriously threatened by an outbreak of a virulent African type of foot-and-mouth disease." An expert said the disease has spread to Turkey after appearing in Iraq, Israel and Syria.

Drive on 'Sex Books' Awaits Court Ruling

HALIFAX (CP)—Focus in the Atlantic provinces "sex book" controversy shifts to Newfoundland next week. A judge's ruling due Wednesday in Corner Brook could influence the course of a newsstand "clean - up" drive in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick by Halifax radio evangelist Perry F. Rockwood.

IN DRUG STORE

Newfoundland Attorney - General L. R. Curtis took the issue to court last month. District Judge W. R. Kent was asked to decide whether 23 publications seized in a Corner Brook drug store are obscene under terms of the Criminal Code.

Peter Ohearn, Halifax County Crown prosecutor, says Judge Kent's decision may help decide future policy here. Prosecution in a Halifax case launched by Mr. Rockwood was suspended several weeks ago after H. H. Marshall Limited, the area's biggest magazine distributor, voluntary withdrew about 80 publications from sale.

And 'Mounties'

Pageant Needs HighlandFling

If you can even approximate a Highland fling the centennial pageant committee wants you.

Among items still missing from the makeup of the centennial pageant are highland dancers, producer Dudley Remus said Friday.

Along with these are an odd assortment of things, including a bicycle-built - for - two, horses, wagons and any and all members of ethnic groups who happen to own costumes.

NO BODIES

The committee also has 30 Mountie uniforms, but "no bodies to put in them," said Mr. Remus. And if they find the "bodies" they have no horses to put them on.

The big show is scheduled for Royal Athletic Park July 28 to Aug. 4.

Close to 1,000 persons are rehearsing parts in the pageant, with Mr. Remus "aiming as high as we can go."

The show is particularly in need of clubs or groups with colorful costumes. It is still short of teenage boys and some men and can still use family groups.

Rehearsals will move outdoors Tuesday if the weather permits. Otherwise they will continue at Victoria High School auditorium.

ONCE WEEKLY

Each of the 16 scenes in the pageant is being rehearsed once weekly. First massed rehearsal of the show will be July 24 or 25 in Royal Athletic Park.

Enthusiasm among the cast is at a high pitch, says Mr. Remus.

Anyone interested in getting in on the act can reach him at centennial headquarters on Douglas Street.

Hog Cholera Strikes East

OTTAWA (UPI) — The agriculture department Friday banned the sale of hogs at 14 auction barns in eastern Ontario and western Quebec and rushed veterinarians to the area to combat an outbreak of hog cholera. The department said 1,100 hogs have been destroyed because of the outbreak on three Ontario and two Quebec farms.

Palmer's 67, 69 Cracks U.K. Open Golf Records

TROON, Scotland (CP) — Arnold Palmer won his second British Open golf championship here Friday, leaving a trail of shattered records on his way to a 12-under-par total of 276 for 72 holes.

His final score was the lowest ever recorded in the 102-year-old history of the tournament and his third-round 67 the lowest ever recorded on the Troon course.

Starting the last two rounds two strokes ahead of Kel Nagle, the Australian who beat him out of the title by one stroke last year, Palmer played spectacularly unbeatable golf in Friday's two rounds as he followed his 67 with a three-under-par 69 to finish six strokes in front of Nagle.

Palmer's final total was 20 strokes better than the score turned in by Walter Hagen when he was runner-up in the same tournament on the same course in 1923. And the Troon course has since been toughened, and lengthened by 500 yards, to a testing 7,045 yards.

Palmer was his old self Friday, putting on a display of shotmaking that left the record crowd of 30,000 fans almost unmanagable. The fans stampeded over the course like a herd of buffalo, refusing to be restrained by ropes or marshals as Palmer started his drive on the back nine of Friday's first round.

Nagle actually took the lead during the early holes of Friday's first round. He birdied the first two holes to draw even, went ahead on the fourth, where Palmer was bunkered and had to settle for a bogey six.

Then it started, gradually at first. Palmer hit the green on the 210-yard fifth hole, rolled in a 10-foot putt for a duece which pulled him even. He birdied the 580-yard sixth to go one stroke ahead after putting a tremendous second shot into a bunker alongside the green. He blasted out within four feet and then sank the putt.

He still had that one-stroke lead as they made the turn, going out in 35 to Nagle's 34.

Then Palmer really turned it on. He birdied the 13th, 15th, 16th and 17th holes and barely missed a birdie on the 18th when a 15-foot putt just slipped past the lip of the cup.

A sensational chip from the rough almost dead to the pin gave him his birdie on the 16th and he ran down an 18-foot putt on the 17th. It was during this stretch of amazing golf that the ecstatic fans got out of control and Palmer twice had to ask for quite once when Nagle was putting.

After 54 holes, Palmer stood at 207 while Nagle, who had come in with a 70 in the head-to-head battle, had 212.

Palmer was still hot for the last round. He took only 33 strokes for the first nine holes. He birdied the second hole with a 16-foot putt, the short fifth with an 18-foot putt and reached the green on the 580-yard sixth with two shots and two-putted from 35 feet for a third birdie. He parred the other six holes.

Nagle was out in 37 and nine strokes in arrears starting the last nine holes. He picked up two strokes on the 14th with a deuce to Palmer's bogey four but there was never a doubt about the winner.

Needing only a 37 coming in for a new record, Palmer made it in 36 strokes. Nagle had a second 70 to finish with 282 and second place.

"I've never played four rounds of golf like that in my life," the 32-year-old Palmer said as he surveyed the sheet which showed the 71-69-67-69 which beat by two strokes the lowest score ever turned in for the British Open—278 by Peter Thomson in 1958 and by Nagle last year.

Palmer won a mere $3,920 in cash but the victory was priceless in prestige. Nagle picked up $2,800 and American Phil Rodgers and England's Brian Huggett, who shared third place with 289s, each won $1,998.

Bob Charles, New Zealand southpaw, was fifth with 290 while veteran Sam Snead of the U.S. and Australian Peter Thomson, a four-time winner of the event, shared sixth place with 292.

Jack Nicklaus, who beat Palmer in a playoff in the United States PGA championship to end Palmer's hopes of a sweep of the U.S. and British Opens, the Masters and USPGA tournaments, wound up 305 as he fought a balky putter all the way.

Pure pleasure is expressed in face of Arnold Palmer as he raises trophy after winning British Open with record score Friday.—(AP Wirephoto by Radio.)

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Just hint that the B.C. Lions are actually making progress and the scoffers go to work.

And they have their arguments. They can point to an eight-year record which shows a 34-5-89 result and only one season when the Lions won more games than they lost. And they remind that last season, which produced only one win and two ties in 16 games, was the worst since the Lions were born in 1954. And this despite the fact that the Lions last year were heralded as starting with the best material they ever had.

It is useless to argue in rebuttal that there were many extenuating circumstances last season. There was the rough opening schedule, injuries to Tom Hinton, the Lions' best lineman, Willie Fleming and Bob Schloredt, who had his shoulder bunged up in the second game and was still hampered in his throwing when he did get back into the lineup.

Then there was the upset over the dismissal of Coach Wayne Robinson, unnaturally bad luck in the two games that were tied and three that were lost and the natural letdown which followed a start which didn't bring a victory until the 11th game.

That may sound like gilding the lily, but, it says here, the Lions are making progress in putting together talent that will win. Give them a healthy Joe Kapp and it may be as soon as this season, otherwise it will take until they find that quarterback they have been looking for since '54.

★ ★ ★

Building a winner in Canadian football means finding adequate Canadian talent and while the Lions didn't do too well in this regard in their first five years, they have made tremendous strides in the last three years and should be caught up with the best by next season.

In the last three years, the Lions have produced at least six top-drawer Canadians, they may have a seventh this year and will get two good ones out of college next year.

Joining the club in 1960 were end Jim Carphin, who played four years at University of Washington; guard Steve Cotter, who played four years at Wenatchee Junior College, and halfback Neal Beaumont, a product of Vancouver junior football.

Last year came end Pat Claridge and tackle Barney Therrien, both from four years at University of Washington, and halfback Bob Belak, who was a star for the junior Saskatoon Hilltops.

All six have proved their worth and all are young—Beaumont and Cotter 21, Belak and Therrien 22, Claridge 23 and Carphin 24—and on the improve. And one could add Mike Cacic, a 25-year-old, 265-pound tackle, to the list. Cacic is in his fifth season with the Lions but it wasn't until 1960 that he began to show the kind of play which makes him potentially as good as any Canadian in the game at his position.

This year there is lineman Tom Walker, a 21-year-old Vancouver youth who spent two years at the University of Iowa. He has looked good enough to at least hope he will do as a regular defence tackle this season, at the worst should be quite a useful addition.

Next year, the Lions will add to their roster Pete Ohler, who is expected to be the first-string quarterback for University of Washington this year, and Tom Seale, a huge defensive end completing four years at Oregon State and hailed as the best Canadian prospect the Lions have yet uncovered.

But it doesn't end there. Naturalized Canadians will eventually give the Lions really standout talent which won't have to be listed "imports" within the next two years.

Fullback By Bailey became a Canadian last season and tackle Emery Barnes, a former University of Oregon star, and end Jerry Janes, will be eligible to play as Canadians on Sept. 25. Bailey is 31, Barnes 32 but both should be good for two or three more seasons. Janes, 245 pounds and six feet, five inches tall, is only 26 and once loomed as one of the top import ends in Canadian football.

Next year, Dick Fouts, the three-time Eastern all-star lineman, and Hinton, perhaps the best guard the Lions have recruited, will be able to start the season as Canadians. Fouts is 29, Hinton 26.

Then, in 1964, halfback Willie Fleming and fullback Nub Beamer are due to become Canadian citizens. Fleming is only 23 starting his fourth season and Beamer only 26 starting his fourth season.

Further in the future are Tom Brown, the All-American lineman from University of Minnesota, and Kapp. Brown took out his papers as soon as he came to Vancouver and is already more than one year towards the required five years of residence. Kapp took out his papers last February.

The possibility always exists that injuries or something else will prevent the Lions obtaining the Canadianized services of some of the above but you had better do your laughing now when someone says the Lions are on their way. It has been delayed but their arrival at the top is now in the foreseeable future.

Angels Beat Yankees Indians Stopped, Too

Ken McBride, hottest pitcher in the American League at the moment, tossed Los Angeles to within half a game of first place last night with a 5-2 victory over New York Yankees.

McBride, who hasn't lost since April, won his eigth straight and ninth of the year, although the Yanks got to him for 12 hits. The Angels gave him plenty of help, getting 11 hits themselves, including Leon Wagner's 26th homer of the year.

Angels won it in the fifth when Lee Thomas singled in two runs to drive out Yankee starter Ralph Terry.

Cleveland's second-place Indians couldn't gain an inch. They ran into Baltimore Orioles, and lost 10-3 as Oriole catcher Charley Lau tied a major league record with four doubles.

Minnesota Twins, struggling to get back in the race, snapped a five-game losing streak with Camilo Pascual's four-hit, 4-0 win over Washington Senators, and Chicago White Sox stopped Detroit Tigers, 4-1, on Ray Herbert's three-hitter.

Lu Clinton's 15th-inning single, capping a night in which he hit a home run, triple, double and two singles, gave Boston a 11-10 victory over Kansas City.

DRYSDALE WINS

In the National League, big Don Drysdale won his 16th for Los Angeles Dodgers, a 5-4 victory over New York Mets that stretched Dodgers' lead to one and one-half games as San Francisco Giants lost, 3-2, to Philadelphia Phillies.

Rookie Dennis Bennett held the Giants to five hits, but another rookie turned in an even more impressive performance.

ONE-HITTER

Cal Koonce, 21-year-old righthander, gave up just one hit—a clean single by Don Blasingame to centre field in the fourth inning—to give Chicago Cubs a 1-0 victory over Cincinnati.

Koonce walked only one and struck out four to bring his record to 8-2. Ron Santo drove in the run with a sacrifice fly in the sixth, and celebrated by getting into a fight with pitcher Bob Purkey as he cut across the infield. Both were thrown out.

Todd lost his first game of the season in relief for Naval Vets Thursday night. So he came back last night and scattered eight hits as Vets beat Transport Workers, 4-2, to move within half a game of first place.

Todd's record is now 8-1.

Last night's score: Nanaimo 18 at Norburns 12.

Next game: Tuesday—VICTORIA at Vancouver.

VANCOUVER — Nanaimo shoved Victoria Shamrocks into the Inter-City Lacrosse League playoffs for the first time since 1959 here last night by posting an 18-12 victory over Burnaby's last-place Norburns.

Norburns, eight points behind Nanaimo now, are 18 behind the third-place Rocks, and couldn't catch them even by winning all their remaining eight games.

A total of 70 minutes in penalties were called in a wild and ragged game, in which Norburns' Don Boyd and Terry McKibbon and Larry Clarkson of Nanaimo all had to leave the floor to have cuts repaired.

Ted Liebich, Ed McDonald and John Ferguson scored three goals each for Nanaimo. Bobby Allan, Tom McVie and Clarkson got two apiece, and Terry Davis, Bill Russell and Val Roberton got the others.

Bill Bradley, with three goals and three assists, Don Boyd, Gary Stevens and Sohen Gill, with two goals each, and Jack Henry, Bill Coroliuc and McKibbon got the others.

Griffith Keeps Title

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Champion Emile Griffith shook off the spectre of his tragic fight with Benny Paret and retained his world welterweight title by a unanimous decision in 15 rounds Friday night against Ralph Dupas of New Orleans.

The 23-year-old New Yorker, by way of the Virgin Islands, had all he could handle in the surprising performance of the underrated 26-year-old Dupas.

But Griffith erased any doubts about the outcome when he caught Dupas with a solid right to the jaw and had him wobbly and almost down under a barrage of blows as the crowd of 5,169 went into a frenzy in the final round.

If Griffith carried any memories of his fight with Paret last March 24 in New York — the night he regained the title and knocked out Paret, who died 10 days later — it was not evident from the opening seconds.

It was obvious that Griffith intended to hold back nothing and he went all out for the full distance.

No-Hitter By Doug Hill In Ruth Final

Doug Hill was a little wild, but he was tough enough in the clutch to post a no-hitter last night as School Board beat Brotherhood of Painters, 7-2, in the Evening Optimist Babe Ruth League final.

Mary Comes Close

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mary Stewart of Vancouver came within a second of her world-record time as she paced the heats Friday in the women's 110-yard butterfly at the Canadian swimming championships.

The 16-year-old sensation swam the event in 1:10 flat, easily winning her heat and posting the fastest time among nearly 30 swimmers entered.

It was exactly a second away from the world record of 1:09 flat which she set here last October.

SLOWS UP

She slowed up in the final, however, and Carolyn Wood, 17, of Portland, Ore., beat her to the wall. Miss Wood, former United States champion until Miss Stewart defeated her, was timed in 1:09.9.

Tom Verth, 23, of Toronto, cracked the Canadian record in the 440-yard freestyle, winning in 4:35.5.

He beat the previous 4:43.6 set by Sandy Gilchrist of Ocean Falls and the 4:37.5 set in the heats by Don Sherry of Hamilton.

COMEBACK TRY

Sara Barber of Brantford, Ont., at 21 making a comeback after two years in retirement, lowered her Canadian 110-yard backstroke mark of 1:13.9 to 1:13.4, beating Miss Stewart by a few inches.

Aldy Meinhardt of Vancouver set a Canadian mark of 1:03.9 in the men's 110-yard butterfly but finished second to Chuck Richards of Tacoma, timed in 1:03.3 for a Canadian open mark.

Worst Blow Since Birgit

Nice-Nellies Knock Belinsky

By PHIL COLLIER

LOS ANGELES (CNS) —Bo Belinsky is a little tired of being picked on. But he goes first class, even when he's being harpooned.

The Los Angeles Angels' rookie lefthander has been panned by Eddie Fisher, Mervyn Leroy, Ginger Drysdale, the Poles, the Jews and several religious groups, not to mention his manager, Bill Rigney, and his general manager, Fred Haney.

"It's becoming an easy way to get your name in the papers," he said. "All you have to do is criticize Belinsky."

STARTED ODD

The rookie's troubles began late in February when he was 10 days late reporting for spring training. He was an oddity, even as a holdout. He thought his 9-10 record at Little Rock entitled him to more money than the Angels were offering.

Belinsky gained even more attention when he announced, during training, that he'd rather shoot pool and chase girls than play baseball.

ONLY NATURAL

With this sort of buildup, it's only natural that his fan mail reached staggering proportions when he pitched a no-hitter against Baltimore here May 5. For athletic purists, it was the worst blow since Ingo took Birgit to camp with him before the first Patterson fight.

Taken in tow by the Hollywood set, Belinsky was prepared to spend the summer in the company of Ann Margret, Walter Winchell, Eddie Fisher and other notables until his luck ran out on him late in May. A young lady riding with Bo and his date in Belinsky's expensive, late-model limousine had the misfortune of cutting her eye while emerging from the car.

The mishap occurred at 3 o'clock in the morning and was investigated by two Beverly Hills patrolmen. The story, with follow-ups, ran coast to coast for several days.

"You should read the mail I've gotten since then," Belinsky was saying.

"I got letters from Polish people saying I was a disgrace to my race. I got letters from Jewish people saying the same thing. I got letters from a temperance group who thought my problem was alcohol. They wanted to give me the cure, then have me travel around the country, telling how I had licked drinking. They don't realize that I seldom ever drink and when I do I usually only have one.

"I got hundreds of letters from children, most of them saying the same thing. They'd say, 'Mother and dad tell me I shouldn't be a fan of yours anymore, the way you've been acting. P.S.—Would you send me an autographed picture?' "

Belinsky touched off another furore last week at Chavez Ravine when he gestured toward fans. He had been lifted from the mound after walking four of the five Boston batters to face him in the first inning.

"I can't understand what all the fuss is about," he says. "You mean if someone's riding me I can't tell 'em to go jump in the lake?"

BELINSKY ANGERED

Fisher aroused Belinsky's ire by telling reporters that "someone ought to have a talk with that boy" after the Beverly Hills caper. Commenting on the same incident, Ginger Drysdale is reported to have said that her husband, Don, the Dodger righthander, wouldn't do a thing like that. Dodger general manager Buzzie Bavasi also issued a statement saying "our players don't act that way."

Mervyn Leroy, the film mogul, threw fresh coals on the fire last week by refusing to let Winchell bring Belinsky into the director's room at Hollywood Park race track.

DRESSED DOWN

The handsome southpaw has had even greater trouble with the Angel management. Rigney fined him $250 for the Beverly Hills episode and Haney dressed him down in front of the rest of the team after the "gesture" incident.

Belinsky suspects he would have taken less criticism if he had continued to win on the mound. The rookie has a 7-4 record and a flossy earned run average, but he's won only one game since May 20.

WON'T ADMIT IT

"They won't admit it, but I know some of the players resent all the publicity I've had," says Belinsky. "I pitched against Boston last week in spite of a pulled leg muscle because I wanted to show everyone I'm not a coward. I've had a pretty good year and I still think I can win 15 games.

"And I know I've helped the club at the gate. I got a lot of publicity on this last road trip and we drew good crowds everywhere we played. I know a lot of people have come out to see me pitch here at home."

American Tennis Team Blasts Canadians, 2-0

CLEVELAND (AP) — The United States shot into a 2-0 lead in the first round of the American zone Davis Cup tennis competition Friday as Chuck McKinley and Jon Douglas won four-set singles matches over Canada's Francois Godbout and Don Fontana.

McKinley beat Godbout 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 then Douglas defeated Fontana 6-4, 6-2, 5-7, 6-4.

If United States doubles combination of McKinley and Dennis Ralston can whip Godbout and Fontana in today's match, the U.S. team will have won the right to meet Mexico at Mexico City Aug. 4-6 in the next round of play and Sunday's final two singles matches would not affect the outcome.

McKinley, 21, No. 2 U.S. player from St. Ann, Mo., had too many guns for Godbout, 24, a University of Montreal law student from Waterloo, Que., but for a time, McKinley had trouble mastering the southpaw attack of Canada's No. 2 player.

Fontana, from Toronto, like Godbout was able to wrest only one set from his opponent. Douglas is the fourth-ranked U.S. player.

The clay courts at the Cleveland Skating Club were in top condition for the matches, played under sunny skies with the temperature in the mid-70s.

U.S. College Golf Champion Tackles Campbell in Final

VANCOUVER (CP) — Kermit Zarley Jr. of Yakima, Wash., and Vancouver's Terry Campbell entered the Pacific Northwest Golf Association final Friday, smashing out down-to-the-wire pressure victories.

Zarley, U.S. collegiate champion, defeated Chuck Hunter of Tacoma, Wash., one-up when he birdied the par four 18th after recovering his 260-yard drive from the trap at nearby Coquitlam.

Campbell, Canadian junior champion in 1961, was five up after 12 then lost 13, 15 and 16, and halved 17 for a 2 and 1 victory over Byron Wood of Eugene, Ore.

The women's finalists, who with the men play a 36-hole round today, were decided earlier Friday at West Vancouver's Capilano course.

June Robinson of Corvallis, Ore., defeated Claudia Lindor, Everett, Wash., 3 and 2 and Vancouver's Ruth Wilson was squeezed out 1-up by Seattle's Mrs. Bob Ihlanfeldt.

Big O's Generosity Recalled

Memory of a generous act by the men of the cruiser Ontario, once pride of the RCN Pacific Command, will be perpetuated in the Salvation Army's new Matson Lodge.

When the "Big O" was paid off in 1957, her officers and men donated a considerable part of the ship's canteen fund to the Salvation Army Matson Lodge campaign.

The money was used to furnish a bright, spacious sun room in the lodge.

Now hanging in that room is a mounted ship's crest of HMCS Ontario, presented to Matson Lodge by Rear-Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes, flag officer Pacific Coast. It was received by Brig. Clifford Milley of the Salvation Army.

Others attending the presentation ceremony were Capt. D. G. Padmore, commander of HMCS Venture officer training establishment in Dockyard, who was executive officer of the Ontario at the time of her final decommissioning, Brig. and Mrs. Victor Underhill and Major R. Frewing of the Salvation Army.

The Ontario was sold for scrap and subsequently towed to Japan where she was broken up.

Body in the Trunk Kept Seats Clean

Names in the News

TORONTO — It looked like a first-class murder mystery—two service station attendants reported they had seen a man's body in the trunk of a car when it stopped for gas in midtown.

The lid of the trunk had been open an inch and they saw a leg, complete with pant cuff, shoe and sock.

The police had the car stopped within minutes. There was a body, but very much alive.

A sooty chimney sweep clambered out and said he had to ride in the back because his two work mates told him he was too dirty to sit inside.

Victorian's Art Shown

An exhibition of paintings by Victoria artist Margaret Peterson opens Tuesday at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria.

The exhibition, her third at the gallery, covers her work over the last 15 years.

Miss Peterson was one of California's leading artists prior to settling on Vancouver Island 10 years ago. She was acknowledged as the most influential teacher in San Francisco during the early post-war years.

A former associate professor of art at the University of California, she has won many prizes for her work.

In 1961 she was one of six women painters whose work was accepted by the Canadian National Gallery's exhibition of contemporary Canadian art.

Bus Rips Open In Truck Crash

BELLEVILLE, Ind. (UPI)—A loaded cross-country bus collided with a semi-trailer truck and ripped open like a giant can on U.S. 40 Friday. Two persons were killed and 42 injured, four critically.

State police said the big Greyhound scenicruiser, on the way from St. Louis, Mo., to New York, apparently tried to pass the truck, "failed to swing into the passing lane soon enough and hit the left rear of the trailer."

WASHINGTON (CP)—The United States Army has decided to help finance McGill University's high-altitude research project, using huge U.S. Navy gun barrels to fire special instrumental projectiles into the upper atmosphere.

Lots of Room Aldermen Say

Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau yesterday counter-attacked an alleged Seattle campaign to discourage tourists from overnighting on the Island.

Ald. Michael Griffin recently charged a whispering campaign was being conducted there to the effect that tourist accommodations in Victoria are full.

Bureau director Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said a sign proclaiming room for all comers will be put up at the city's information booth at the world's fair.

"We want to make sure that visitors have no doubts. There is plenty of accommodation available all over Vancouver Island," he said.

Ald. Griffin Thursday repeated charges of the whispering campaign and told city council he had even heard a Vancouver radio station say Victoria's motels were overflowing.

"It isn't true," he said.

Insurance receipt below B.C. "pink card."

* * *

'Pink Card' Fraud Bared

A high-pressure auto insurance scheme — that involved selling temporary coverage to U.S. motorists in Canada when they didn't need it—was blown sky-high yesterday by a California businessman.

S. S. Stephens of Sherman Oaks, Calif., complained to B.C. and Washington officials that a company had sold him temporary insurance for his car even though his own policy provided adequate coverage in this country.

He—and many other visitors—have been bilked into buying the coverage on pretext that cars will be impounded without it.

Signs posted on Highway 99, approaching Blaine from the south, state that, "If you do not have a pink card in B.C., your car is subject to impoundment." An office, set up in a trailer, is selling the policies, Mr. Stephens said. He paid $5 for his four-day coverage.

Winter Grants Tighter?

Fine Print Crucial To Ottawa's Nod

(Colonist Staff Writer)

Elation among municipal officials here at the federal government's announcement of continued winter work incentive grants for another year may be premature.

Unofficial word here yesterday was that the federal government will not exhibit the largesse which was evident last winter in its ready approval of all and sundry municipal projects.

Like a lenient parent, Ottawa last winter seemed to wink a fatherly eye at some of its own winter works ground rules.

This winter, simply by pointing to the fine print, it could save millions of dollars in line with its current austerity program, and according to some well-informed sources it will.

The hitch comes in a clause which defines the qualifications for approved incentive grant projects. They must be works which would not otherwise be carried out.

This was inserted into the scheme to prevent municipalities from simply using incentive grants for work they planned on carrying out anyway.

Create New Work

Intent of the senior government was to force municipalities to create new work and, hence, new jobs.

But last winter municipalities found the fine print was getting only cursory attention from approval officials and the arrival of the final go-ahead signal on some jobs even surprised the people who had submitted them.

Cities which adhered to the letter and spirit of the regulations (Victoria was one of them) occasionally even raised the cry of "unfair" at those which didn't.

Strict interpretation of the regulations may cost Victoria $75,000 on the parking garage project alone, and could add $25,000 to the cost of a new juvenile home proposed by Greater Victoria municipalities.

A special bylaw providing for the financing of the parking garage was passed almost 11 months ago and construction of the new juvenile home has been held up specifically in the hope that winter work grants will be available.

Sufficient Money

Financing estimates for the garage indicate there will be sufficient money available with a little to spare.

Ald. Michael Griffin, chairman of the city's parking commission, said last night he was not surprised to hear the federal government might insist on rigid adherence to conditions.

"This is what I expected," he said. "I don't know how it will affect the garage.

"I rather suspect it will make it rather tough for us but I will have to wait to see what happens.

"It appears now that we will be all right, but mind you, it would make it just that more comfortable if we did have it and we want to save money for downtown businessmen if we can."

A cost analysis prepared by the parking commission recently estimated the cost of land purchase and construction of the garage at $314,000 —$71,000 less than the $385,000 allowed for the work in the bylaw.

A 400-car garage also included in the bylaw will be constructed before the grants become available.

A Saanich project which would probably qualify under a careful-scrutiny policy is a proposed municipal golf course at Beaver Lake. It probably wouldn't be built without the winter works grant.

But a vast sewage scheme in the Burnside-Tillicum-Glanford area might not fare so well.

Centennial Capsule Short One Queen

Victoria Centennial Society's time capsule—a converted 150-pound bomb—will likely have to be buried without a letter bearing the signature of Queen Elizabeth.

A letter recently sent to the Queen, assuring her of Victoria's loyalty, drew a reply signed by Edward Ford, the Queen's private secretary.

* * *

"I am commanded by the Queen to thank you for the kind message of loyal greetings and assurances which you have sent to Her Majesty on the occasion of the centenary of the incorporation of Victoria as a city on 2nd August, 1862," Mr. Ford wrote.

"Her Majesty recalls with much pleasure her two visits to Victoria and sends to its council and citizens her warm remembrances and good wishes."

Old Men Out

Mountain View Closes

By TED SHACKLEFORD

Mountain View Home closed down quietly yesterday as the last four inmates left the 50-year-old building for other accommodation.

The sombre act of closing the refuge for aged men contrasted sharply with the stormy debates which led up to the move.

LAST OF 25

Two of the men went to a private boarding home and two went to a new private hospital. They were the last of 25 inmates who were in the home when city council decided to close it earlier this year.

Staff of the old home will spend its time making an inventory of all the furnishings, separating what can be used by other city establishments from furnishings to be sold and others to be junked.

DEADLINE BEATEN

Closure of the home beat the tentative deadline of August set in April of this year.

It marks the end of an era and of a fight among council members which began in 1956. Aldermen split through the years over whether to close the home or keep it open.

Offical closing will take place before the end of the month.

COSTING $20,000

In recent years it was costing Victoria $20,000 a year to keep the home open.

Originally conceived as the city's poorhouse for indigent old men, the home had a condition of entry that all persons should sign over their assets to the city.

Although the home is closed, city council is still faced with two problems — what to do with $17,850 donated over the years as an "entertainment" fund, and what to do with the property.

SOME CONDITIONS

The $17,850 is made up of donations and bequests, some with conditions attached.

Ald. Lily Wilson, chairman of the city welfare committee, has been charged with finding some way of using the money. City solicitor T. P. O'Grady recommended to the committee early this year that the money should, as far as possible, be spent according to the wishes of the benefactor and the remainder held in trust for 20 to 50 years.

WITHOUT OBJECTION

At the end of that time, presumably, council could spend the money in any way it thought fit without likely objection from donors.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, an unbending opponent of the closing of the home, yesterday suggested the money should be spent on the 25 men who were in the home at the end.

The balance of the money could be given to some senior citizens' project, he suggested.

ILL-WILL POSSIBLE

The second problem — the site — could spark intermunicipal ill-will between the city and Oak Bay.

Situated in Oak Bay, at Fort and Christie, the three-acre site has been mentioned by council as ideal for a high-rise building.

Estimates of its value as a high-rise site have run as high as $110,000. But the area is zoned to permit only single family dwellings.

PUBLIC PARK

And Oak Bay council has discussed the possibility of creating a public park on the grounds.

When Oak Bay council considered the possibility of using the land as a park, Coun. John Watts, chairman of Oak Bay's lands committee, said:

"Offhand, it would seem to be well-located geographically. I would like to have a close look at it.

HAVE A LOOK

"We'd certainly go along and have a look at it if they close the home."

Another suggestion, made early this year by the Victoria and District Zone Council of the Royal Canadian Legion, was for the federal government to assume control of the home as an annex for the Veterans' Hospital.

Suitcase Sleuths Dig Deep To Nab 'Lay' Smugglers

By TED PULFORD

Customs investigators have begun poking deeper than ever into the luggage of homecoming Canadians in an attempt to stave off an upsurge in amateur smuggling.

The suitcase sleuths fear that disgruntled Canadian travellers, unhappy over recently-imposed restrictions on duty-free imports, will start taking matters into their own hands.

Local customs men — who can almost spot a bulge in your pocket before the ferry ties up at the wharf—are nevertheless delighted to see Canadians utilize their legitimate exemptions to the fullest extent.

First off, they point out, a traveller should know the limits imposed by the law. They can be simply stated.

Every Canadian is allowed to bring back $25 worth of U.S. merchandise, free of duty, in any four-month period. And that's the limit.

Annual limits have no meaning and only create confusion.

Speaking for his harried investigators, collector R. A. Marquis said yesterday his office receives scores of phone calls each day from would-be travellers anxious to know the regulations.

ALL AT ONCE?

"Because they are allowed to buy $75 worth of goods in a 12-month period, they want to know if it can all be bought at once.

"The answer is no. Twenty-five dollars every three months is the maximum."

Because no age-limit is specified for the $25 limit, the baggage probers look with a benign eye on youngsters who wish to declare something.

CLUB FOR POP

It therefore follows, that if Junior can be made to recite a declaration at the border, nobody will prevent him from claiming an exemption on a new golf club for pop.

"As long as Junior can make the declaration, understands the sense of what he is saying and can sign his name to the declaration, its all right with us," Mr. Marquis said.

ENTIRE BROOD

It follows, then, that if you're too old to be tempted by smuggling, the thing to do is to head south with the entire brood. The return trip on the ferry can be devoted to training the youngsters in the niceties of customs regulations.

'Onus on Firms'

Smoke Truce May Go On

The city's two-week truce with operators of Victoria's smoke-producing industries ends Tuesday morning but it could be extended.

"We have had no request for more time from the operators," Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, chairman of the city's smoke advisory committee, said yesterday.

UP TO GROUP

"What will happen in the future will be up to the committee at the meeting.

"We will be given a daily report and a report on each of the operations as to what is being done."

Ald. Edgelow refused to say whether he favors giving industry more time, on the grounds it might influence members of his committee.

NIGHT OR DAY

"I have had operators tell me they wish we would phone them, night or day, when their stacks are breaking the bylaw.

"The onus is on them to make sure they don't break it.

"The ultimate solution would be to have a meter in each smoke stack to check and I think it is going to be a necessary part and parcel of their operations — for their own sakes."

PHONE CALLS

Ald. Edgelow added he had received a number of phone calls from city residents advising him of improvement in the smoke situation.

"They quickly stated it is not to their satisfaction yet, but there has been a definite improvement."

At a meeting between plant operators and the city smoke committee June 26, the operators were given a two-week period to meet the conditions of the bylaw.

CITY AGREED

During that time the city agreed to withhold further prosecutions where infractions were found, but to notify the operators of the infractions.

Since June 26, city smoke inspectors have issued 12 warnings to plant operators, Ald. Edgelow said yesterday.

The two-week truce followed about two weeks of smoke inspections during which 10 charges were laid under the smoke bylaw.

Before that, Ald. Edgelow's committee gave operators almost 11 months—from the day the bylaw was adopted — to meet conditions of the bylaw.

Products Lack Label

'No National Pride' In Canadian Firms

An indignant city merchant complained that Canadian manufacturers show a "deplorable lack" of national pride when they fail to stamp "made in Canada" on their products.

Commenting on a Daily Colonist report that U.S. visitors were heading home with suitcases full of Japanese-made souvenirs, Lloyd Davies of Spencer's Stores said Canadian manufacturers have nobody to blame but themselves.

HE'S FURIOUS

"It makes me furious," said Mr. Davies as he unwrapped a huge parcel of men's clothing just gathered up from one of his stores.

"Look at this stuff," he said. "Made in Canada by Canadian manufacturers with Canadian labor, but you'd never know it to look at the labels."

Mr. Davies was right. Packaging was good, design was original, but the country of manufacture was missing.

"Other countries don't suffer from the same disease," he said, pulling a large pair of pyjamas out of a bag.

"Malden Hall Sleep Wear. Made in Formosa," the label announced in large letters.

The solution, Mr. Davies said, lies in the hands of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association but "they're lying down on the job."

Log Birling In Sooke On Shore!

You won't have to walk to the water's edge to see the log birling contest at this year's All Sooke Day, July 21.

Logging sports officials are bringing the water ashore, along with the logs.

"We're digging a 10-foot-square hole three feet deep, right where all the other events are held," said Stanley Jones, one of the officials.

"We'll put a plastic sheet in it and fill it with water. It'll be easier on the spectators. They used to have to walk a short distance down to Sooke River to see the birling contest."

Bulldozers Winning Battle of Blue Clay

Forces from the Esquimalt public works department are still up to their ears in blue clay as Operation Lockley continues.

The worst is over but the trench warfare will continue into next week.

Enemy is 3,000 tons of blue clay found in a hump in the road in the 1200 block Lockley Road.

Two bulldozers, one loader and seven trucks began to dig out the hole early this week and are still at it.

"The worst side of the road is finished. We're filling in the hole now," engineer John Graeme reported yesterday. "Next week we'll pull out the other side."

Cost of the operation is estimated at $5,000. Consolation is that clay from the 10-foot trench is being sold to build a new playing field at Esquimalt High School.

Douglas Paving Set Next Week

Repaving of Douglas Street south of the Fountain Circle will be carried out next week.

Section involved is between Chatham Street and the circle. One side of the road will be paved at a time to avoid closing off the main road.

Behind City Hall Doors A Chamber of Horrors?

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

The last word . . . or a conglomeration of chit-chat with which we bid you adieu!

TORTURE CHAMBER: A letter arrived at city hall yesterday and was promptly delivered to the business tax department.

It was addressed to: "Rack and Screw Division, City Hall . . ."

PETE'S PICK: A number of readers have asked that we reprint the column item we liked best of all.

It's no easy task.

Looking over our clippings the other night didn't help much but at last we settled on this one, published in October, 1960.

Here it is again . . .

PIRATE FAN: Drug salesman Richard Paterson is still a little red-faced over an incident which occured when he took his watch into a city jewelry store to be repaired.

After explaining what was wrong with the watch the jeweler asked: "And the name?"

"Girard Perregaux—The Sea Hawk," answered Richard in a loud voice.

It was only then, when he noticed the swivelling heads of other customers and the look of sheer fascination which came over the countenance of the jeweler that Richard realized he had been asked for his own name, not that of his watch.

THE PASSING PARADE: At the Jaycee Centennial Fair earlier this year officialdom stepped in and said the big jackpot was illegal.

The funds were all destined for the Victoria University but the jackpot was closed down anyway.

Now another organization is openly selling tickets—with a "door prize" as a come-on — from a stand on Douglas Street. Apparently this has the sanction of the officialdom which closed down the Jaycee jackpot.

It makes one think.

READY AFFAIR: A spy who attended the recent annual meeting of the Young Social Credit League in Calgary reports that one of the contenders for the post of vice-president said: "I have not been a Social Crediter for very long . . . but I have been under the influence quite a while now!"

* * *

THE THINGS WE HEAR: Apparently national Socred co-leader Real Caouette really has something.

A beautiful brunette French-Canadian 20-year-old, Ginette Bertrand, told the recent meeting of the Canadian Young Socreds: "I have given up all my other interests since I first saw Real Caouette on television!"

INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCE: Our old friend, Secret Agent X-13, submits for his final report some views about the orbiting Telestar satellite.

The new system, he says, has opened up a new era in the communication business as well as giving an interesting glimpse of the three countries involved. Their programs neatly line up with their own nationalities.

The U.S. broadcast started with a stirring shot of Old Glory wafting in the breeze while the band played the Star Spangled Banner.

The French, who jumped the gun and went second, opened up with a shot of Paris and Yves Montand singing some love songs.

The English, God bless 'em, featured a panel discussion by three television experts on the mechanics of international TV.

Unitarians Fear Camp Will Burst at Seams

Vancouver Island Unitarians expect to stretch facilities to the limit for their two-day summer family camp this year, but they still think they'll have to turn people away.

The two-day camp Aug. 25 and 26 will have as its theme nature and man and Rev. Peter Weller of the First Unitarian Church in Seattle will be guest preacher.

28 AS TENTERS

Camp Miriam, at the northern tip of Gabriola Island, will accommodate 100 people and facilities will be stretched by accepting an additional 25 as tenters.

An advance telephone survey of all Unitarian Fellowships on Vancouver Island indicates an over-subscription, organizers say. Each fellowship is to be allotted a quota.

Vacancies in any area's quota after July 28 will be filled from areas with more applications than allotted.

New Look, Old Charm

ALBERNI—A new look, but not too new, is the aim of volunteers working on the renovation and extension of All Saints' Anglican Church here.

They are attempting to preserve the old-world charm of the church opened Sept. 3, 1898, at a service conducted by Rev. Swithin Asquith, first vicar of the church.

The building program includes an extension which will double seating capacity. Vertical siding and a new entrance will brighten the exterior, but the original design and the stained glass windows installed in memory of Alberni Valley pioneers will remain unchanged.

LEASE ON LIFE

A new foundation has given the church another lease on life.

The former vicarage will be remodelled and connected, by a covered passageway, to the neighboring church. It will be altered to provide a church office, Sunday school rooms and meeting facilities.

Bruce Knowles headed the committee which raised funds for the remodelling. Plans were drawn by Stan Halling and Art Bowerman is supervising the work.

Square-cut nails the present volunteer workers find in the church's structure remind them of their predecessors, the volunteers who helped build the church back in the 19th century.

BUILDER IN CHARGE

George Forrest, a professional builder, was in charge of construction but Harry Guillod, a leader in the movement to establish the church, and other volunteers, helped with the building.

George Bird, a sawmill operator, supplied the lumber. Robert Ballard built the pews. Charles Sells donated the church bell. The women's guild donated the baptismal font in 1899.

WILL REMAIN

Altar rails, the sanctuary window and a cross from a First World War grave in France are among the mementoes of the church's early members which will remain in All Saints' when the building is renovated and its past preserved.

Ex-City Cleric To Visit

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

Once Jesus came to Jerusalem and, going into the church, "looked it all over." Jesus got into quite a fight with the business men in the church, calling them "a den of thieves," and drove them out with a whip.

Would the church feel uncomfortable under the scrutiny of Jesus today? What would He say about our exclusive communions and multitude of sects? Would the famine of love in the church not distress Him? Would He think that we emphasize holiness but not holy living, sacred acts but not social goodness, had too large a gap between profession and practice, talk much about orthodoxy but little about orthopraxy, sometimes are so heavenly that we are no earthly use?

Samuel Rutherford said of a certain fellow whose creed and conduct were contradictory, "Oh, he's a miserable cur! For 30 years he has listened to sermons about supernatural things, until he thinks that supernatural things are everything and meanness is nothing."

Jesus Perplexed?

Would Jesus be perplexed by the congregations which, like an audience, watch hired performers — minister, choir and organist — without participating? Would He be happy about the comment, "The choir gave a good performance today"? Or, "I surely enjoyed the sermon"? (I like the response to that one—"Lady, if you enjoyed that sermon, you didn't understand it!")

Would Jesus be saddened by our lethargy in going to church and our desperate rush to get finished and get home? Would He feel satisfied with our busy, busy "services" and their lack of quiet?

Would He not be amazed as congregations failed to say Amen to the prayer and instead it was bawled in vulgar fashion by the clergyman? Would the meeting-hall chatter before the service jar His sensitive spirit?

Surely Jesus would be puzzled by the fact that most congregations are composed of middle-class white people. He would note the absence of the Chinese and the Negro. But especially He would inquire about the absence of the sinners and the needy, the poor and the sick.

* * *

He might think that we confess too much the sins of others and confess our own sins too little. Wouldn't He be struck by the lack of joy in the church and absence of thanksgiving?

He might feel that our church too is commercialized, our civilization too materialistic. He might suggest it is high time we stopped our scientific progress and caught up with our souls. One can hear Him warning that unless moral and spiritual development keeps pace with scientific power we will surely destroy ourselves.

Almost one can hear His voice, "You may make money and become rich; you may build sky-scrapers and sputniks. But what shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul? Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?"

Stricter Supervision For French Teen-Agers

By NORA MARTIN

PARIS (TNS) — With Britain's Princess Anne just returned from an educational visit to France, the question arises: What does France do for a girl and how does French education compare with ours?

From 16-year-old Jacqueline Esterel I learned that for French girls life is far from being all romance and frills, play and fashions. Working more and harder in school than North American girls, French Mademoiselles are kept more strictly by their parents and not considered "mature" before they are at least 18.

Jacqueline's father is fashion designer Jacques Esterel. Yet she gives little thought to frills and fancies. Dark-haired and pretty Jacqueline is serious minded and so are most French girls of her generation. She has just passed her exams for the Junior Matriculation and is now leaving for a holiday on the French Riviera till she goes back to school in September.

Here is Jacqueline talking her thoughts on life, school, boys, fashions.

MARRY AT 25

"I want to do something 'concrete' in life. Go to university . . . later do research in biology. Getting married, sure, but not before I'm 25 . . . have two or three children . . . but even then . . . I don't think it would be entirely satisfactory to be only a housewife and mother. Money? Yes, it is necessary, but should not become an obsession which it does if you don't have enough of if you have too much.

"Our school is at 8 a.m. till 5 p.m. with two hours for lunch. Thursdays schools are closed in France but we work on Saturdays. Except on Thursdays and Saturdays I've always two or three hours homework to do. I'm going to a girls' school. There are very few coeducational schools in France. I'm taking English and German as foreign languages and hope to go to the respective countries to improve my accent . . . classes in science are my favorite.

"We have no school uniform . . . I wear sweaters and skirts, we are not allowed to wear slacks or blue-jeans . . . no make-up either in school.

"I like to go to parties. We dance the Madison now. Once a month in an average there is a dressy party somewhere . . . the boys wear dinner jackets. But more often we just gather at my or at a friend's house, casually, playing records, talking, dancing . . . drinks are served, a punch-bowl . . . champagne at dressy parties . . . no, too much drinking was never a problem. It is alright with my parents when I come home after midnight providing they always know where I am.

FEW 'FLIRTS'

"I prefer to go out with older boys, not less than 23 . . . young boys are idiotic. French girls, those I know, are kept rather strictly by their parents.

"In Paris I wear a suit or separates . . . slacks on holidays, never in Paris . . . a friend sends me boyish shirts from America . . . wonderful. We wear shirts tucked into the skirt now. My favorite dance dress is of white lace, princess style, low-cut with very thin straps . . . my hair is long and I don't want to have it cut . . . I like it piled up neat. I love pearls . . . and earrings . . . and little bows in my hair . . . oh, you really think I'm typically French?"

Yes, Jacqueline, you are typically French.

Alaska Diamonds Gift from Groom

Large baskets of pink and white snapdragons, gladiolus and sweet peas decorated the Christadelphian Hall, for the marriage of Lorriane E. Stovel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Richmond Stovel, and Mr. Robert Mitchel Hiley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hiley.

The petite bride was given in marriage by her father wearing a floorlength gown of nylon sheer posed over taffeta. The hoop skirt was topped with a fitted bodice featuring a bateau neckline enhanced with lace appliques and brilliants. Sleeves ended in lily points. Her shoulder length veil, dusted with irridescent sequins, misted from a dainty tiara. She carried red roses and stephanotis.

She wore a black Alaska diamond necklace and earrings, the gift of the groom.

Mrs. J. Forgie, matron of honor, chose an aqua silk organza over taffeta gown. The ballerina length skirt featured wide bands highlighted front and back with self material roses. Bridesmatron, Mrs. J. Galbraith, was similarly gowned in rose shade. Both had toning petal hats. They carried bouquets of white and pink carnations.

Little Kim Dignan, flower girl, wore pink silk organza over deep rose taffeta. A bow and streamers attached to the back waistline completed the outfit. She chose white and pink accessories.

"Because" was played during the signing of the register. Mr. George Stenning was best man and Mr. Thomas Kirk and Mr. Robert Stovel, the groom's brother, showed guests to their pews.

The pink and white color theme was carried out in the decorations at the reception held at the Golden Slipper. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with pink rosebuds. Mr. Richard Sneddon proposed the toast to the bride. A second toast was proposed by Mr. B. Tickle of Winnipeg.

Leaving on a honeymoon to Vancouver and the World's Fair, the bride changed to a pure silk tangerine and green print shantung dress and tangerine duster coat, with white accessories.

The newlyweds will make their home at 1150 Summit Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Luff, 1898 Forrester Street, wish to announce the engagement of their only daughter, Beverley Doreen, to Mr. Richard Major Faulks, youngest son of Mrs. S. Folks and the late Mr. Ronald W. Faulks. The wedding will take place on Saturday, Aug. 23, at 8 p.m., in St. John's Anglican Church. Rev. Canon George Biddle and Rev. R. S. Faulks of St. John's Church, South Burnaby, brother of the groom-elect, will officiate.

Wedding In Nanaimo

Miss Patricia Ann Cairns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cairns, Doncaster Drive, and Mr. Leonard Kissinger Okell, son of Major and Mrs. Stanley Holland Okell, Beach Drive, were united in marriage at a ceremony performed by Monseigneur A. G. Baker in Mount St. Peter's Church in Nanaimo, B.C.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a ballerina length white lace dress styled with lily point sleeves and round neckline, dipping to a V at the back. Her bouquet was of pink and white rosebuds.

Mrs. Kenneth Gogo was organist and Mrs. Moira Suzanne was soloist.

COUPLES CLUB

The Couples Club of Centennial United Church Women will sponsor a garden tea on Tuesday, July 17 from 2 to 5 p.m. at the home of Mrs. A. T. Schaddelee, 1259 Revercomb Place, off Moss Street.

Easy Does It with WIN PACKER

Plastic bags are invaluable around our house. Of course one must keep them safely away from the young fry's inquisitive fingers, the same as matches, poisons and other potential dangers.

But for picnics, holidays and travelling, plastic bags have a thousand uses—for keeping foods fresh and separate from one another; for carrying wet washcloths to wipe sticky hands and faces enroute; to stow wet bathing suits; to hold shoes, cosmetics, medicine while travelling; for keeping children's sox and undies separated; for keeping sand out of the camera on the beach.

These are but a few of the many valuable uses for plastic bags on holiday. You can probably think of many more.

We'd be glad to hear of any special uses you have found for plastic bags so we can share them with our readers. Just drop me a line in care of this paper.

BRITISH ISRAEL

Rev J. G. Sproule of Vancouver will address a meeting of the British-Israel World Federation, (Victoria Branch) on Monday, July 16 at 8 p.m. in the Newstead Hall, 734 Fort Street. His subject will be "We are Counted as Sheep for the Slaughter."

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I usually go along with your advice but when it comes to teenagers offering their bus seats to adults, I say you're all wet. I used to be one of those chivalrous suckers but I learned my lesson. I wouldn't give up my seat to a woman if she was carrying a birthday cake with 100 candles on it. Here is why:

When I was a high school junior I got on a bus to go to school. It got very crowded. A woman whose weight tripled mine was hanging on a strap right in front of me. She was having a tough time balancing herself. Every time the bus stopped she flopped into my lap or dug her spiked heels into my feet.

Finally I got up and said, "Would you care to sit down?" She hollered at the top of her voice so everyone in the bus could hear, "You fresh little punk. I'll bet I'm not 10 years older than you are. The nerve of you trying to make me out an old woman just so you can look like a hero." With that she gave me a shove and I fell back into my seat. Everyone on the bus roared. I was so embarrassed I got off at the next stop and walked the rest of the way to school. — EX-SIR GALAHAD.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: I do not agree with you that students should offer their seats to adults on buses. Do you know what it's like, trying to carry 15 pounds of books and a cello? Well I do because I did it for four years.

A few months ago I got up and gave my seat to an elderly woman who reminded me of my great-grandmother. She seemed very grateful. After a few blocks I was having trouble managing my gear so I asked the woman if she would mind holding my cello. She replied, "Do the best you can with it, Girlie, I'm going to a party and I don't want my dress to get wrinkled."

That did it for me.—CURED.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a college student who has taken the bus to my 9:00 o'clock class for three years. Whenever I'm lucky enough to get a seat I stay put, open up a book, and don't bother to look to see who is hanging from a strap. I couldn't care less.

Half the adults on the buses are women who are running downtown to shop. They seem to think they must get to the stores before the doors are opened. If they'd use their heads and stay home until the rush hour is over they would have a seat. But no, they rush downtown during the busiest time so they can smash themselves like sardines in a can.

These same nitwits can be seen going home about 5 o'clock with big shopping bags just when the students and office workers are calling it a day.

I've had it from these bargain-hunting housewives. If they have enough strength to pound the pavement for eight hours, they can stand up in the bus both ways.—JAKE.

Dear Ann Landers: Our high school Family Living Class (summer session) discussed your column "Should Teenagers Surrender Bus Seats to Adults?"

You may be interested to learn that one-third of the class (numbering 27 students) saw no reason for teen-agers to offer their seats to older people. Their thinking was: "We paid for the seats and are entitled to them."

I'm a teen-ager and I was shocked at this attitude. I think it's a clue to why so many kids are in trouble today. Children are raised with no respect for mother, father, teacher, law, or anyone. Of course the parents are to blame. If I sat on a bus while an older person stood, and my dad or mom found out about it I'd get such a walloping I wouldn't be able to sit down any place for a week. — OLD-FASHIONED SQUARE.

Dear Square: Thank you for saving the day with your noble defence of old-fashioned manners. Chivalry is not dead, honey, it's just having a tough time breathing.

PERSONAL MENTION

The Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes will hold their annual garden party in the grounds of Government House from 3.30 to 6 on the afternoon of Wednesday, July 18. The bands of HMCS Naden and the Royal Canadian Engineers' from Chilliwack will supply music during the afternoon.

Canon Robert Willis will officiate and godparents will be Mr. and Mrs. J. Morrison. The baby's grandparents are Mrs. A. Romain of Sidney and Mrs. R. Fernyhough, 422 Boleskine Road. MacLeods Going to Dunvegan

All over the world families are heading for one of the most romantic of Scotland's castles—Dunvegan in the Isle of Skye. These people will not necessarily be Scots. Some of them, in fact, will have been Americans, Canadians, Australians, for generations. But they all have one thing in common. They are MacLeods. They may not bear that name, but they are either directly connected by marriage with, or descended from, persons bearing the name MacLeod; or they are from families who are septs or adherents of the Clan MacLeod. This July from the 19th to 24th the MacLeods are gathering at Dunvegan for the MacLeod Parliament, held every three years, when delegates from all over the world discuss the affairs of the clan and meet as a family to talk over family matters.

Mr. and Mrs. John MacLeod and Mrs. Catherine MacLeod of Victoria and Mrs. Edith MacLeod of Sooke have already left to attend the gathering.

Valedictorian at recent graduation exercises, Joan Bidwell, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Bidwell, Ganges, was top honor student in the graduating class of the Salt Spring School. In addition to the coveted citizenship award, Joan received the $200 scholarship given by Mrs. J. G. Jensen, and the PTA certificate for highest scholastic achievement in Grade 12.—(Photo by A. M. Sharp)

The engagement is announced of Patricia Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Nolls, 1971 Keith Place, and Mr. Howard Wayne Richardson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Richardson, 129 Menzies. The wedding will take place on Saturday, Aug. 18, at 8 p.m.

St. John's Church

Jousting Fun Enlivens Fair

St. John's Anglican Church, it's people and its grounds, were in revel mood yesterday.

There was so much gaiety and merriment, the fun will be repeated today from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

The occasion was the Mediaeval Country Fair, and all the knights and their ladies fair, were there.

The good curate, Rev. Colin A. Campbell was much in evidence, since he was the chief organiser of the grand affayre. He greeted one and all in his Campbell of Argyle tartan kilt.

One thousand pennants in gold, red and blue dazzled the eye as they stood out in the breeze, while throngs of patrons strolled through the past into a land of heraldry where there was jousting, puppet shows, archery, sword fighting and street dancing.

Gales of laughter greeted the jousters, clad in velvets of the day, as they rocked two and fro on their suspended mounts, dealing one another blows with long poles, tipped by boxing gloves. The poor varlet who lost, fell into a thick bed of sawdust.

Meanwhile, while the jousters were jousting, those of fainter heart, saw the movie "Sir Quentin Durward." (The "Sir" was thoughtfully added by Rev. Campbell.)

Hardly was the movie over, than a morality play of vice and virtue called "Vice Versa" and written by Mrs. Campbell, was presented. Running half an hour and with a cast of 18, the tale was enthusiastically and noisily received.

The Marmo family of Oak Bay kept the fun rolling, with a puppet show. "Warder of the Tower." All through the day crowds were busily buying old English meatpies in the Pie Pavillion run by Mrs. Austin Curtis.

Mrs. E. C. Milne served tea on the lawn of the Rectory assisted by Mrs. George Biddle and Canon Biddle who lent their home for the two days. Mrs. Biddle was gowned in a fetching 12th century costume.

Periodically the curate strolled majestically through the grounds playing lilting airs on his pipes.

Stalls of books, plants, oddments and homecooking did a roaring trade, and children vied with adults at archery, darts and the ring toss.

In the evening the fair became a maze of light as decorations lent by Mr. Richards of Nottingham set the tents and grounds into a blaze of many colors.

Maypole dancing and street dancing finished the "day" at 10 p.m., when the knights and their ladyes departed until the morrow.

Funds from the Mediaeval Fair will be used for youth work and the church restoration fund.

Mildew Explained!

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

When I was in my early 20s, I found myself stationed, under government orders, in what is probably one of the most desolate spots on the North American continent.

This was Cape Race, Newfoundland, sticking away out into the North Atlantic, and the spot from whence Guglielmo Marconi launched his history-making transatlantic wireless telegraph signals in 1901. I was on an electronic mission, but of a much more prosaic nature, but the memory that sticks in my mind is the fact our party only saw the sun once during our six-weeks stay there. The rest of the time we moved, ghost-like, through wisps of fog.

* * *

The clammy mist was everywhere. I found out—the hard way—it was necessary to take all our clothing out of the cupboards every day; to give our suits a good brushing and air them before the fire, otherwise they became mildewed.

From that time on, mildew was always associated in my mind with dampness and, when I ran across mildew on delphiniums, roses or garden peas, my first thought was to try to create drier conditions for the plants. It didn't work.

Reluctantly, in the light of my Cape Race experience, I abandoned my theory. I have come to the conclusion mildew on plants is not caused by dampness, but is almost invariably associated with dryness at the roots.

* * *

Poor air circulation has an important bearing on it—a rose bush growing right out in the open, with no neighbors crowding close in, is much less subject to mildew than, say, a Dorothy Perkins growing on a wall—but the principle contributing factor is lack of deep moisture in the root run.

The rambler and climbing roses always seem to suffer more than the bush or tree roses, and here again I think it is because plants grown against a wall are sheltered to some extent from the rain and insufficient moisture penetrates to the rooting area.

You'll also notice it is nearly always the late peas, maturing in August and September, that become mildewed. These must do most of their growing during the driest part of the season, while the vines that enjoyed the spring rains escaped unscathed.

Mildew usually attacks roses and delphiniums fairly late in the season after the first flush of bloom is over, the time when our spring enthusiasm for gardening is waning. We are inclined to relax, take things easy and become careless in our cultural practices. This isn't good, for the foliage on our plants becomes badly crippled just at the time when it is performing its most important work of the year—plumping up the roots for next year's blooming.

* * *

Fortunately, mildew isn't too difficult to control if you catch it early and stay on top of it. There are a number of good anti-mildew sprays available, including lime sulphur, Orthorix and the excellent Acti-Dione, and in an emergency I have had fair results from ordinary washing soda, half a pound to the gallon of water.

The important thing, though, is to correct the dryness at the roots with a good deep watering, followed by a heavy surface mulch.

Leo Szilard, Critic at Large

Rebellion Can Succeed

(While John Crosby is on vacation, his column will be written by guests. Today's contributor is Dr. Leo Szilard, atomic physicist.)

By LEO SZILARD

Under the last two presidents, and so far also under the Kennedy administration, the United States has steadily followed the line of least resistance. In 1945 Japan was suing for peace, but it was easier to stick to the demand of "unconditional surrender" and drop the bomb, than arrive at a decision—jointly with its allies—on the peace terms to be offered to Japan.

Now, it is easier to keep on building long-range solid fuel rockets, as fast as they can be produced, than to propose an agreement on arms limitation that Russia could accept. And if we keep following this line of least resistance, we may reach, within a few years, a point of no return in an all-out arms race.

* * *

With President Kennedy, a number of able men moved into the administration who are deeply concerned, but so far they have not been able to deflect the seemingly inexorable course of events. I find myself in rebellion against the fate that history seems to have in store for us and it appears there are many others who are equally rebellious.

Even though they are in the minority, still this minority could take effective political action, provided they are able to agree on specific objectives to halt the drifting toward war, and are willing to compensate for their numerical inferiority by making substantial campaign contributions to congressional candidates—about 2 per cent of their income annually. The contributions of 100,000 such people, having average income of $7,500, would amount to $15,000,000 a year.

* * *

Two interrelated political committees would have to operate in Washington: the Lobby for Abolishing War and the Council for Abolishing War. The lobby would advise the people where their contributions ought to go to bring about a change in Congressional attitudes that would encourage the administration to pursue truly constructive policies. It would support those in Congress who are deeply concerned about our drifting toward war. More importantly, the lobby would strive to find able men and women, similarly concerned, who could get elected to Congress.

It would be the task of the lobby to persuade them to seek the nomination, and to help them get the nomination, by assuring them of adequate campaign funds in advance. The council would bring to Washington from time to time scientists, scholars and other public-spirited citizens who could help members of the administration and Congress clarify their minds on the complex issues which have to be resolved if peace is to be established on a reliable basis.

* * *

I spoke recently at eight universities and colleges across the U.S. In each place I asked the large student audiences to help me determine whether a political movement of this sort could get off the ground. The students distributed mimeographed copies of my speech among their elders in their home communities, and to date I have received about 2,500 letters from persons pledging 2 per cent of their income. In view of this response the Lobby and the Council were set up June 2, in Washington, D.C. The political objectives which the council may be expected to pursue are obtainable at 935 East 60th Street in Chicago.

SHEILAH GRAHAM in Venice

'He's My Beau, But...'

VENICE (NANA)—Jane Fonda visited the parents of Andreas Voutsinas in Athens, she told me in London, but "we have no plans for marriage," Jane assured me. "He's my beau, but we are not talking of getting married." The 24-year-old actress-daughter of Henry Fonda is understandably shy of tying the knot. Her father had four unsuccessful marriages . . . Jane is definitely not fond of Laurence Harvey, with whom she and Capucine co-starred in A Walk on the Wild Side. "He was terribly cruel to Capucine," Jane told me. "And I still can't understand why the director allowed him to go as far as he did." . . . Mr. Harvey maintains Capucine is not a good actress and should not have been in the film.

* * *

It makes me feel older to print that Jeff Donell is play Anne Heim's mother in The Iron Maiden and Alan Hale Jr. is the father. It seems only yesterday that Jeff was as old as Anne is today.

* * *

Simone Signoret, three weeks late with her Today We Live movie in Paris, will appear in some American cities with her Term of Trial film, made in Dublin with Sir Lawrence Olivier.

* * *

Columbia gave Carl Foreman an expensive 1962 limousine—as a thank-you for the $30,000,000 they will make from his Guns of Navarone.

* * *

A friend of Zsa Zsa Gabor in Paris was telling me when she decided to live in one of ex-husband Conrad Hilton's hotels in New York, she expected to get a hefty discount. To Zsa's annoyance she was and has been billed every month for the going rate. But Zsa can afford it—her insurance company paid her $400,000 for the home and contents consumed last November in the Bel Air, Calif., fire.

* * *

Curt Jurgens, that man-about-town, will be directed by a former Dead End Kid in Hide and Seek with Janet Munro. When I saw Curt dining at the White Elephant in London he very definitely needed a haircut.

* * *

Darryl Zanuck owns more shares of 20th Century-Fox than the rest of the board combined. And he will have a big say in the forthcoming stockholders' meeting in New York. I doubt he will ever again settle in Hollywood to run the studio's production. He prefers life in Paris, although he might consider New York—which is where all the firm's decisions are made anyway. There are some personal reasons why Darryl won't come to Hollywood except for brief visits.

* * *

Irina Demich, leading lady in Zanuck's new film, The Longest Day, which, incidentally, may put 20th back on the road to solvency, is getting other movie offers. Irina is the only "important" lady in the picture. But, on Darryl's advice, she will wait for it to be released before considering any other offers.

* * *

Jayne Mansfield called from Rome to say she is "thrilled" the studio has not picked up her option. Jayne, on her way to Venice to location with Panic Button, has already accepted her first free-lance movie—Act of Violence, to be made in Yugoslavia this fall.

Tanganyikan Here — Foreigners Unscrupulous

African Hunters Won't Halt Waste

By HAL LEIREN

The man who kills a rhinoceros for the "medicinal" value of its horn is basically little different from the man who jumps the fishing season by a few days. Unless controlled they could each wipe out their respective game species.

This opinion was expressed here in an interview yesterday by Hamedi Seleman Mahinda, game assistant with the ministry of lands, forests and wildlife of Tanganyika.

* * *

Mr. Mahinda is visiting Canada as part of a UN fellowship in wildlife conservation and management. He is spending July 9 to 15 on Vancouver Island, making tours of a fish hatchery and a game preserve.

A native of northern Tanganyika, he worked as a game scout for the Tanganyika government from 1945 to 1950 when, becoming game assistant, he took a desk job. In this capacity he travels through the country lecturing on wildlife problems.

As a game scout he was engaged in law enforcement patrols and game control for the protection of crops and human lives.

The biggest problem facing the Tanganyikan conservation officer is the inertia to changing ways built up by centuries of primitive living, said Mr. Mahinda.

Unscrupulous traders from outside the country encourage the natives to hunt the rhino for its horn, which is ground and sold as a panacea for anything from impotence to poisoning.

* * *

The elephant is sought out in the forests and killed, with only its tusks taken. The carcass, which could feed many people, is left to rot in the sun.

Mercilessly hunted for their sleek pelts, which fetch good prices in the bazaars of larger towns, are the leopard and the cheetah, said Mr. Mahinda.

Indiscriminate slaughter has reduced the rhino and the cheetah to the point of extinction, he said.

Tanganyika contains a great variety of species in large numbers and particular interest in preserving this natural resource has been displayed by the government since the country became independent.

Education is of prime concern. Most natives can neither read nor write and can be reached only by direct contact.

* * *

Those who live outside the cities and whose ancestors have for centuries hunted are permitted to take what they require for food.

But the lure of easy wealth is sometimes hard to resist and foreign traders talk convincingly of the easy money to be made by breaking laws "that are not right anyway."

Despite strict game laws and increasing co-operation from the people conservation is still an uphill battle in Tanganyika, says 40-year-old Mr. Mahinda.

A standing reward of £50 for information leading to conviction of poachers is also paying off, he says.

In Canada for less than a week, Mr. Mahinda had not had time to form many impressions of conservation management in this country, beyond saying "it is better organized than at home."

* * *

So far, however, what had impressed him most was the hospitality he had been shown since leaving home June 15.

"It was really something I had not expected," he said.

Mr. Mahinda leaves Sunday for Alberta, where will study until September. He will then leave for an eight-month stay in the U.S.

"FOREST" CEDAR SIDING

WHAT IS FOREST SIDING?

Made of dry 1¼" stock in 10 and 12-inch widths, "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, burls, etc.

APPEARANCE?

For homes and buildings where a distinctive and pleasing appearance is desired, enhanced by heavy shadow lines. Sound intergrown knots ranging in size from 2-inch in 8-inch widths to 4-inch in 12-inch widths add to the rustic appearance of this grade.

WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES?

"FOREST" siding, with its substantial thickness and greater wood volume, adds to the structural STRENGTH and solidity of the building.
The design of "FOREST" siding ensures a light weather seal at the lap which together with its thickness and flush-to-base principle makes excellent material from the INSULATION standpoint.
"FOREST" siding represents an economy to home builders. Costing less than most other types of siding, the lap design ensures easy fitting and speedy application at less labor cost.

HOW IS IT APPLIED?

As easily and quickly as common shiplap. Each piece of "FOREST" siding fits snugly on the one below and requires only one mitre cut.

HOW CAN IT BE FINISHED?

If a natural finish is desired, use equal proportions of raw linseed oil and any well-known brand waterproof sealer. This not only protects the wood surface, but also brings out the natural beauty of the knots and the grain. If a colored finish is desired, "FOREST" siding can easily be painted. It is recommended that a sharp instrument be used to score the finished product underneath the butt (where it will not show) to stop formation of a vapor barrier.

Winning Contract

As a hand unfolds, a defender may fail to see the correct defensive play that will beat declarer's contract. Sometimes, however, he is granted a reprieve, and if he fails to rise to the occasion the second time, he has only himself to blame.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♡	2 ◇
3 ♡	Pass	4 ♡	All Pass

Opening lead: ◇ K

West was torn between a takeout double and overcalling in his good diamond suit, and finally elected to overcall, possibly due to his 100 honors. This was shallow reasoning, for if his partner had as little as five spades to the queen, game in spades might be possible. North, being a passed hand, was able to jump in hearts without distorting his values, and South accepted the invitation to bid the game.

Two rounds of diamonds were led, and when East followed "up-the-line," West switched to a trump rather than run the risk of opening up one of the black suits. Declarer won the king in dummy and played a trump to his ace. When West failed, South took the successful club finesse and returned to his hand with a trump. West carelessly discarded a diamond. Another club was led and when West produced the king, it was allowed to hold the trick. He was left with the unhappy choice of leading into the spade tenace in declarer's hand, or conceding a sluff and ruff. He actually led a spade, but as the cards were placed, neither of his choices could save the game.

West had two chances to save himself from the endplay. When South led the first club, West should have played the king to stop himself from being saddled with the lead on the next round. However, West was forgiven for failing to see this play. Fortune smiled on him; when declarer played another round of trumps, West should have seen the impending endplay and dropped his club king as if it were a red hot rivet. Declarer would have had to let East win the third round of clubs and the marked spade return would have downed the contract.

NEW—FOUR BEDROOMS
EXCEPTIONAL VIEW

There is no better view in Victoria—overlooking beautiful Cordova Bay—eastward across the low-lying Gulf Islands to the lofty snow-capped Cascades and regal Mount Baker.

Even without the view the landscaping is a pleasure to behold, on a lot of VLA size with a cleverly designed circular driveway that eliminates the "wait till I move my car" problem when guests are departing. There is a carport . . . and . . . a drive-in garage.

Inside, a combination of skilful design, tasteful decorating and numerous modern extras make a home that is truly livable. . . . A panelled living room with a wall-length view window and raised-hearth fireplace, a good-sized dining room, a kitchen, modern as tomorrow, three bedrooms, one of which could be used as a den, a bathroom with five pieces, built-in vanity and two inset hand basins.

The ground level has a family room with fireplace, a fourth bedroom, and a bathroom, all of which are complete . . . no extra expense finishing job here . . . and . . . plenty of space left for utilities, a workshop, a big automatic oil hot-air heating unit, an encased electric hot water heater and storage room.

It is a soundly built, expertly finished home that the owner doesn't want to sell, but he has to leave Victoria . . . so the price is right at and it can be viewed by appointment only. Call S. W. Bridges at EV 5-3435 or GR 9-1870.

BIG GEORGE! By Virgil Partch

"George! What are these freshly painted golf balls doing under my hair dryer?"

Short Cut

Trim Me Down She Said, and Was

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Since Ingrid Westman has been taken down a peg, her outlook on life has improved.

Two years ago she had to look down at her dancing partners. Now she looks them square in the eye.

Two years ago the Swedish girl was six feet, two inches tall. Now she's a six-footer. A surgeon trimmed her down.

The 20-year-old girl from the coastal town of Oernskoeldsvik sparkles with vivacity and happiness. But in 1960 she was shy and always conscious of her unusual height.

When it came to dancing, she found it awkward — there weren't many tall boys around.

One day she talked the problem over with a surgeon. He was willing to carry out an operation to shorten her legs and, after discussions with her parents, they settled for six feet as the perfect height for her.

The surgeon, Dr. Lars Unander - Scharin, made an incision on the upper part of the thigh bone of one leg, just under the neck of the femur. Two inches of the bone were cut out and the right-angled ends of the bone sections were attached to each other with silver nails. After the first two-hour-long operation Ingrid had to rest for six weeks.

Then the other leg was treated.

After convalescence, Ingrid walked with crutches. And one year after the operation she threw the crutches away and started a new and happier life.

"I think it is just wonderful," she said. "I am really happy for the first time in several years and I can enjoy life in a way that was impossible a couple of years ago, when everybody stared at me."

India, Russia

Engine Deal Closed

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—The Indian government has concluded an agreement with Russia for the manufacture in India of Soviet supersonic jet engines, reliable sources said here Friday.

While no official details were available, these sources said the agreement provided for the manufacture of Soviet RD-9 engines in India.

The engines will be used to power Indian-designed HF-24 supersonic jet planes now being developed at the Hindustan aircraft factory at Bangalore in south India.

The Indian government had earlier planned to equip the fighter with the British Orpheus jet engine but abandoned the idea because of the high cost, the sources said.

Four Held In Robbery

ROLLA, Mo. (UPI) — Missouri highway patrolmen last night apprehended four men sought in the $13,365 robbery of the St. Clair Savings and Loan Association in Cleveland. The holdup was filmed by a hidden camera.

The four did not resist when their car was stopped near here by two officers.

Drug Charges

MONTREAL (CP) — The RCMP Friday disclosed the seizure of 257,000 goofballs in the province six months ago and the scheduled arraignment of two men next week on charges arising from the seizure.

Retired, Promoted

Rear-Admiral Patrick D. Budge, left, of Toronto and Ottawa, is retiring after 42 years' service. For the past two years he has been chief of naval personnel at naval headquarters, and he began his naval career in 1921 as a boy seaman. Commodore Michael Grote Stirling of Rutland, B.C. and Halifax, will be promoted to Rear-Admiral on taking up appointment of chief of naval personnel and as member of naval board, Sept. 17. He succeeds Rear-Admiral P. D. Budge.

Lawn Bowlers Win Battle for Space

Lawn bowling facilities at Carnarvon Park are being doubled despite protests by some residents in the neighborhood.

Original plans for the park called for two bowling greens.

PAMPHLETS MAILED

Pamphlets were mailed to residents explaining the facilities planned so that people who bought land in the area would know what to expect, said Reeve George Murdoch.

OBJECTION RAISED

Objection was raised when Oak Bay Lawn Bowling Club proposed eight new greens to provide more recreation for senior citizens.

Residents felt the new facilities would deprive children of playground area.

SELDOM USED

But a survey indicates that children seldom use the space in question, said Reeve Murdoch. Besides, senior citizens are entitled to their recreational facilities, he added.

The eight greens now in use at the bowling club allow only half the 120 members to bowl at one time. There is a waiting list of people who want to take part.

Cows Threatened

Flames New Blow To Local Farmer

July has been a bad month for farmer J. S. Judge, 1703 Burnside Road West.

Last Friday, pranksters cut the bindings on 1,500 bales of hay in his field, and he had to set his harvest crew to work tying the bales again.

BALES BURNED

Yesterday fire broke out in his stubble field, burned up six bales of hay and threatened to roast some of his cows on the hoof.

The fire had spread over an acre of stubble before Saanich firemen — arriving three minutes after the alarm at 2.18 p.m.—had it extinguished.

GRASS FIRE

Greater Victoria firemen responded to several dry-weather grass fires yesterday. Among them were fires at Rutland Road and on Gonzales Hill in Oak Bay, and at the rear of 2836 Phyllis Street, Ten Mile Point, in Saanich.

Doctors Not Coming

No influx of idle doctors from Saskatchewan has been noted in B.C. since the start of the medicare hassle.

Dr. E. C. McCoy, executive director of the B.C. Medical Association, said from Vancouver yesterday "four or five" Saskatchewan doctors had made plans to settle in B.C. since spring.

EVERY YEAR

"Even so," he said, "we get that much movement every year."

There has been no movement in the other direction at all, he said.

"So far as I know, no B.C. doctors have moved into Saskatchewan."

Aged 86

Walter Engelhardt Dies in City Home

A native Victorian, long-time city employee and an enthusiastic stamp collector has died in Mount St. Mary's Home at the age of 86.

Walter Engelhardt had been employed by the city from 1909 to his retirement in 1946. He was water rates collector from 1920.

He was born in Victoria March 26, 1876, of United Empire Loyalist and German parents. His maternal grandfather was a sea captain and pioneer Victoria settler.

He married May Barkwell, formerly of Toronto, in 1912. She died in 1961. A son also died before him.

Two daughters survive.

Mr. Engelhardt was an enthusiastic stamp collector from his boyhood until a year or so before his death and, in 1931, became one of the seven founding members of the Victoria Philatelic Society.

Italians Lose Phone Service

ROME (AP) — Italians got their newspapers back Thursday and immediately lost their long-distance telephone service. Employees of the state-owned telephone company walked out for 24 hours after refusing a contract offer. Non-editorial newspaper workers seeking higher pay went back to work pending new negotiations.

Four Islanders New Officers

Four cadets from Vancouver Island — including two Victorians — are members of the graduating class at HMCS Venture, the navy's officer training establishment at Esquimalt.

Among 24 cadets who become acting sub-lieutenants next Friday are: OC Douglas S. Mitchell, Sidney; OC Phillip L. Johnston, 1595 Clive Drive; OC Terence L. Wolfe-Milner, Ganges, Salt Spring Island; OC Keith G. Nesbit, 1466 Mitchell.

ADMIRAL GUEST

Rear-Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes, flag officer Pacific Coast, will be guest of honor at the graduation ceremonies starting at 3 p.m. Friday. He will address cadets and present awards.

Immediately following, members of the graduating class, their parents and guests, will have tea in the cadet block of HMCS Venture. That evening the graduation ball will be held in the Naden wardroom, starting at 9 p.m.

Earlier in the day the cadets are scheduled to attend a special church service at 11 a.m.; and at noon, with their parents and members of the Venture staff, they will have lunch on the quarterdeck of the frigate HMCS Beacon Hill.

Graduation marks the end of two years of study and naval training for the cadets who, after a leave spent at their homes across Canada, will split up. Some will go to RCAF station Centralia, Ont., for flying instruction; others to take qualifying courses for the rank of lieutenant at HMCS Stadacona, Halifax.

Heat Kills Tots

MONTEREY, Mexico (AP) —Heat wave across this northern industrial area has caused heavy casualties among children, officials said Friday. Seven have died, and about 400 are reported suffering from dehydration and stomach disorders. Temperatures have soared above 100 degrees at times.

Totem Pole For Mexico

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — A totem pole made especially by the Haida Indians of British Columbia will be presented to Mexico as a gift of the Canadian government and people and will be erected in Chapultepec Park, officials said yesterday.

The pole will be more than 30 feet high and will weigh five tons.

Chapultepec Park is the city's largest recreation area, covering several hundred acres in the centre of town, and is crowded with visitors almost every Sunday.

Texas Indians Plan Whoop-Up for City

Plains Indian war whoops will echo over Thunderbird Park Wednesday along with drum beats never before heard on the Island.

A seven-man Indian dance group from Waco, Texas, will perform dances of the plains and southwestern Indians in a hands-across-the-border gesture of goodwill.

The visiting Oglawanagi "ghost dancers" will participate in a 3½-hour get-together with another group from the Songhees Reserve off Maplebank Road at Admirals.

Polio Kills Girl Parents Warned

HULL, Que. (UPI) —Parents were warned Friday to have their children immunized against polio after it was revealed a three-year-old girl had died and eight other children were stricken with the disease during the last month.

Dr. Francois Gosselin, director of the Hull health unit, said he hoped previous immunizations will prevent a polio epidemic in the city but the situation was "disturbing."

Scots' Games

Hundreds Compete July 28

A skirl of the pipes and a roll of the drums July 28 at Macdonald Park will usher in the Centennial Highland Games, one of the largest ever held here.

More than 200 kilted competitors from B.C., the prairie provinces and the U.S. Pacific Northwest will participate in track and field events.

TRADITIONAL TOSS

These will include jumping, sprinting, long-distance running and the traditional hammer and caber toss.

The games will celebrate Victoria's centenary and the 100th anniversary of the first Highland games here.

KEEN CONTESTS

Events will start at 9 a.m. when dancers and pipers rival each other for professional and novice awards.

Keen competition is expected in marches, strathspeys, reels and piobaireachds, the classic of the pipes.

SPECIAL SALUTE

In addition to regular competitive events there will be a special salute to Victoria's centenary by the Adeline Duncan dancers.

The Canadian Scottish pipe band will escort Mayor R. B. Wilson into the park to open the games officially at 2 p.m.

PORTLAND, SEATTLE

A highlight will be pipe band competitions in which 10 entries have already been received from Portland, Seattle, the mainland and Vancouver Island.

Following competition, all the bands on the field will take part in a colorful mass parade.

Orange Parade Today

A parade through downtown Victoria this morning by an estimated 1,200 to 1,500 Orangemen will mark the 272nd anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne.

The members of the Loyal Orange and Loyal True Blue associations on the Island and lower mainland are commemorating the battle in which William III defeated James II and the cause of the Jacobites at the River Boyne in County Kildare.

MADE SECURE

It was this battle which was said to have blocked Roman Catholic succession to the British throne and made secure the forces of Protestantism.

The parade, led by the Victoria Orange Pipe Band supported by Vancouver bands, will leave the Orange Hall on Courtney Street at 11.30 a.m.

TO BEACON HILL

It will proceed to Quadra, along Quadra to Yates, Yates to Douglas, Douglas to Michigan and into Beacon Hill Park.

A march past will be held at the park followed by a children's sports day. Orangemen will be welcomed to Victoria by Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean at 2.30 p.m. at Cameron Shell.

Two to Go For Play In Esquimalt

Appointment of a five-member recreation commission in Esquimalt propably will be completed when council meets a week Monday, City Clerk J. W. Allan said yesterday.

Council early in June authorized a five-member commission, with three members to be municipal councillors. These three have been appointed, Mr. Allan said, but he declined to name them pending appointment of the other two.

The commission is intended to be co-ordinating body which, it is hoped, will create new recreational activities.

Doctors Wield Fear —Lloyd

REGINA (CP)—Premier Woodrow Lloyd said Friday organized medicine in Saskatchewan is using fear and threat of discomfort and illness to their patients" as weapons in the dispute between the province's doctors and the government.

He said the "patients have been pushed into the front line of the battle without regard for their needs."

Saskatchewan Attorney-General Robert Walker slipped quietly into Victoria Friday and met privately with B.C. Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Mr. Bonner declined to disclose the purpose of the meeting.

His remarks were included in a statement replying to a petition presented Wednesday at a protest rally here by the Saskatchewan Keep Our Doctors Committee. The committee had asked for the suspension of the controversial Medical Care Insurance Act, which took effect July 1, to pave the way for a negotiated settlement.

RESUME DUTIES

Mr. Lloyd's statement said the committee should urge the doctors to "resume their duties as healers of the sick and pursue their indubitable rights to present their views through normal channels."

"Nothing that the government has done has compelled the doctors to close their door. It was they who made the decision to

SELWYN LLOYD

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan turned a third of his 21-man cabinet out to pasture Friday in one of the most extensive cabinet shuffles since he assumed British leadership after the 1956 Suez crisis.

Selwyn Lloyd, 58, lieutenant of both Macmillan and former prime minister Anthony Eden, was ousted from his post as chancellor of the exchequer.

Other ministers who ended up without jobs were:

OTHER JOBS

Harold Watkinson, 64, defence minister; Viscount Kilmuir, 63, lord chancellor; Sir David Eccles, 59, education minister; Lord Mills, 73, minister without portfolio; Dr. Charles Hill, 59, housing minister, and John Maclay, 57, secretary of state for Scotland.

BUTLER DEPUTY

Richard Butler, once a rival of Macmillan's for leadership of the Conservative party, gave up the home secretary's portfolio. He was formally named deputy prime minister, the first in the Macmillan era, and continues to be responsible for overseeing central African and Common Market affairs.

SUCCEEDS LLOYD

Reginald Maudling, 45, formerly colonial minister, succeeds Lloyd as treasury chief. He has had a decade of ministerial experience and an extensive knowledge of economic affairs.

Duncan Sandys, the Commonwealth relations minister, adds the colonial portfolio to his task, a further indication that Britain's age of empire is drawing to a close.

QUIT CABINET

Peter Thorneycroft, who quit Macmillan's cabinet in 1958 after a quarrel over financial policy and returned in 1960, moves up a rung to become defence minister. He formerly held the aviation portfolio.

Henry Brooke, 59, Lloyd's second in command at the treasury assumes Butler's former responsibilities for Britain's internal security at the home office.

The sweeping cabinet changes were considered inevitable after the series of byelection reverses suffered by the Conservative government.

'Simple' Russians Harass Test Foes

★ ★ ★

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Several Russians who described themselves as "simple Soviet citizens" tried to break up a prohibited demonstration by a dozen Western anti-nuclear campaigners in Red Square Friday.

But the Westerners, mostly members of Britain's Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament, held their ground and argued with crowds of Russians for two hours in a scene believed unprecedented here since the 1917 Soviet revolution.

★ ★ ★

A single Soviet policeman stood by without interfering —except to show one of the Russians where to take two banners seized from the demonstrators.

The Westerners, here attending the Soviet-sponsored peace congress, went ahead with the demonstration after they were flatly refused permission at a last-minute meeting with Soviet officials.

★ ★ ★

They walked quietly from their hotel, the Moskva, to Red Square 400 yards away and began unrolling their banners near the Lenin Mausoleum.

A burly Russian woman of 50 grabbed two of the banners, declaring she was a "simple Soviet citizen," and handed them to two young Russians who also said they were "simple Soviet citizens."

★ ★ ★

The demonstrators hastily rolled up their third banner.

A young Russian man asked what was written on the banners. Someone told him the banners protested against both American and Soviet nuclear tests.

"I agree," the young man said — and another Russian began discussing the issue with him.

By this time several hundred Russians were gathered around the Westerners in animated discussion. NBC photographer Frank Bourgholtzer tried to film the crowds but was interrupted by "simple Soviet citizens."

The banners read in English and Russian: "We condemn Anglo-American tests," "we demand no more Russian tests," and "all people act against all tests."

Victorians Chart H-Blast Result

Space Secret Solved Soon?

Victoria scientists have written the first chapter in a story that is expected to unlock the secrets of magnetic storms in the outer atmosphere high above the earth's surface.

Within seconds of a U.S. high-altitude hydrogen blast over the Pacific early Monday, sensitive instruments in the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory here recorded a short-lived artificial "storm" in the magnetic field surrounding the earth.

TINY VERSION

Bernard Caner, in charge of magnetic studies at the observatory on Little Saanich Mountain, said last night records showed the storm lasted 2½ minutes. It was a miniature version in size and duration of the big disturbances caused by solar flares.

In Ottawa, Dr. Kenneth Whitham of the Dominion Observatory hailed the achievement of the Victoria scientists.

PIECE TOGETHER

Similar reports from observatories in other countries are eagerly awaited, said Dr. Whitham, in order to piece together a story of how these magnetic storms originate and how they spread.

"This will tell us a great deal scientifically," he said.

CAREFUL CHECK

Advised in advance by U.S. authorities of the nominal time of the test blast high over Johnston Island, Mr. Caner and his staff made a careful check of the sensitive magnetometer set to record magnetic disturbances.

The machine was commercially made to specifications by Dr. Paul Serson of the Dominion Observatory in Ottawa.

TIME RECORD

It was installed here in 1957 and recently modified locally for greater sensitivity. The machine automatically records magnetic fluctuations on paper together with an accurate time record.

Scientists here had grown weary of frequent postponements in the high altitude tests, so at about midnight Sunday—two hours before the latest time for the blast received from U.S. authorities—they made a final check and went home to bed.

WITHIN SECONDS

The blast was triggered on schedule—records here show the magnetic disturbances caused by the high-altitude shot came "within seconds" of the nominal time—and the machine worked perfectly giving what was described as a "clear record."

Mr. Caner said the magnetic storm was "larger than expected."

SINCE THE LAST

But he added the Victoria observatory had no previous experience with high-altitude tests since the last U.S. series was held several years ago, before the magnetic section was in existence here.

However, reports of the magnetic storm from other observatories around the world, expected in Ottawa during

Officials Agree

Market To Link 30 More

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — British and Common Market officials agreed Friday that 30 British dependencies should be associated with the European Economic Community if Britain becomes a member, sources close to the negotiations reported.

The officials were said to have prepared a report to this effect that will be submitted to a ministerial meeting of Britain and the Common Market July 25.

DEPENDENCIES

The dependencies for which association was considered to be the most satisfactory solution are:

1. Africa and the Indian Ocean: Kenya, Gambia, Mauritius, Zanzibar and the Seychelles.

2. Caribbean: Barbados, the Windward Islands (Dominica, Grenada, St. Lucia, St. Vincent), the Leeward Islands (Antigua, Montserrat, St. Christopher-Nevis - Anguilla), British Guiana, British Honduras, the Virgin Islands, Cayman Islands, Turks and Caicos Islands.

TWO OCEANS

3. Atlantic Ocean and Antarctica: The Bahamas, Bermuda, Falkland Islands, St. Helena and dependencies and British Antarctic territories.

4. Pacific Ocean: Fiji, Tonga, Pitcairn, Solomon Islands, Central and Southern Line islands (uninhabited), Gilbert and Ellice islands and New Hebrides.

SOON WILL BE

Commonwealth territories that now are dependent but soon will become independent were considered as though independent for the association purposes. These include Jamaica, Trinidad and Uganda.

Military Clash Provoked

Explosion Any Moment Red China Warns India

PEKING (Reuters)—Communist China declared Friday its long-standing border quarrel with India "has developed to a point where an explosion may be touched off at any moment."

A Chinese foreign ministry spokesman made the warning in giving reporter copies of a Peking note to New Delhi charging that "India aims not only to assert its territorial claims on China by armed forces but also deliberately to provoke a military clash on the border so as to create an anti-Chinese atmosphere."

NINE MORE

(In New Delhi meanwhile, India declared Friday that Communist China had set up nine new outposts in the Ladakh area of Kashmir in recent weeks.

(An Indian protest note said that "aggressive and provocative" Chinese military activities in the area created the threat of a clash "at any moment.")

T. C. DOUGLAS
. . . seeks seat

★ ★ ★

Douglas 'Proud' Of B.C. Chance

REGINA (CP)—New Democratic Party national leader T. C. Douglas said Friday night he will move to Ottawa in August but indicated he would consider moving to British Columbia should he be elected in a byelection.

Mr. Douglas said in an interview he would be "proud" to be a candidate in British Columbia. Earlier Friday, Erhart Regier announced he was going to resign his Burnaby-Coquitlam seat to allow Mr. Douglas to stand in a byelection.

WAS DEFEATED

The NDP leader was defeated in the June 18 election in a bid for the Regina seat.

Mr. Regier's announcement was made at a caucus of 19 NDP members of Parliament in Winnipeg, which Mr. Douglas also attended.

On his return here, Mr. Douglas said he had always preferred to represent Saskatchewan, but he would be proud to be a candidate in the west coast province.

He planned to spend the weekend in Regina then attend the CCF provincial convention in Saskatoon next week.

Meeting Soon?

Algeria Rivals May Heal Rift

ALGIERS (Reuters)—Algerian leaders appeared Friday night on the verge of calling a meeting to settle the rift that has split the provisional government.

the meeting was expected to consist of either a session of the National Council (parliament) or a big congress of the National Liberation Front.

The decision on the meeting was expected to be made within the next 48 hours by a conference of the political and military leaders of Algeria's six military districts.

ONLY SOLUTION

The council meeting has been proposed by dissident Vice-Premier Mohammed Ben Bella as the only solution to his dispute with the Algerian provisional government headed by Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda.

Ben Bella's faction claims Ben Khedda's government lacks support from the 70-member council which is the legislative body of the Liberation Front which led predominantly - Moslem Algeria to independence from France.

Children

Beatings Big Killer

CHICAGO (UPI)—Beatings by parents may cause more deaths among children than leukemia and as many as auto accidents, the American Medical Association said yesterday.

A nationwide survey reported in a recent issue of the AMA journal showed physical abuse of children is "a frequent cause of permanent injury or death."

CAUSE OF DEATHS

"It is likely that it (the so-called 'battered child syndrome') will be found to be a more frequent cause of death than such well-recognized and thoroughly studied diseases as leukemia, cystic fibrosis, and muscular dystrophy," a journal editorial said, "and it may well rank with automobile accidents . . ."

A team of physicians stated that of 302 child-beatings reported by 71 hospitals over a period of one year, 33 of the victims died and 85 suffered permanent brain injury.

447 CASES

The doctors said a survey of 77 district attorneys revealed 447 such cases in a one-year period. Of the 447 children, the survey showed, 45 children died and 29 suffered permanent brain damage.

The doctors said the child-beating victim usually is under 3 years of age, he shows signs of neglect and malnutrition but may come from high as well as low socio-economic background.

COMMON FACTOR

A common factor among offending parents regardless of background, they said, is "a defect in character structure which allows aggressive impulses to be expressed too freely."

"There is also some suggestion that the attacking parent was subjected to similar abuse in childhood," the doctors added.

The physicians urged doctors to be alert to the possibility of parental mistreatment and make greater use of X-rays.

Red Tests Must Be Last

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union served official notice Friday it feels free to conduct another series of nuclear tests. It said the United States tested first and the Soviet Union must be the last.

The warning, in an official Tass news agency statement, came only four days before the 17-nation disarmament conference meets in Geneva.

The official statement did not say when Russia might resume nuclear testing.

Higher Yet Next Week?

HONOLULU (UPI) — A U.S. bid for the highest nuclear explosion in history may be made Wednesday at Johnston Island, it was learned Friday.

Sources said preparations were under way for the fourth firing of a missile-borne nuclear device from Johnston.

Island Yachtsman Lost On Atlantic Voyage

HALIFAX (CP) — RCAF search and rescue said last night shipping between here and Bermuda has been asked to keep a look-out for the 40-foot schooner Carinae which left Chester, N.S., June 15 bound for San Diego, Calif.

The vessel, manned by Ivo Thiergarten of Campbell River, B.C., and Bill Johnson of England, was to have called at Bermuda and San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Search officials here said the two expected to be in Bermuda 10 days after leaving Chester. They are believed to have been delayed by headwinds, they said.

The two-masted vessel has a radio receiver but no transmitting apparatus. She has an auxiliary engine but relies mainly on sails.

Actor Jailed As Addict

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actor Billy Gray, who portrayed the teen-aged son of the Anderson family in the Father Knows Best television series, drew a six-month sentence Friday for possession of marijuana. Superior Judge Edward Brand also placed Gray, 24, on probation for three years.

Colonist Classes in Duncan

Kick Motor—Swim Ahead

By MARGIE NAYSMITH

Next week we're going to start the motor at the Colonist free swim classes.

During the second lessons we've been learning how to glide through the water and now it's time to kick the feet and propel the boat.

* * *

A good number of the boys and girls have mastered their breathing and it's obvious a lot of them practiced hard. But there are still quite a few who need to work on it some more.

We separated the youngsters who were having trouble with their breathing and they got along fine.

* * *

Most of the breathers can now glide and the others will catch up soon.

We're having a wonderful time at Queen Margaret's School pool in Duncan but last week one young fellow tried to talk his way out of a class.

He was very nervous of the water during his first lesson and we were surprised to see him bounce into the pool area yesterday with great excitement. He rushed right over to Marilyn Cann, my Duncan assistant.

* * *

"Do you like cats, Marilyn? Hmm? Do you like cats?" he asked rapidly.

She assured him she did.

"What kind of cats?" he continued, just as rapidly.

The little monkey was trying to occupy Marilyn so she couldn't get on with the lesson.

* * *

After she finally got him into the water a little head bobbed up and blurted: "Do you really like cats, Marilyn?"

Marilyn's not sure what to expect next class—a little boy for a swim lesson or a cat. Perhaps both.

Isabella Point Marvels

FULFORD—"We've waited for this for 65 years," Isabella residents marvelled the other day when the provincial highways department got around to flushcoating Isabella Point Road.

Colonist correspondent Bea Hamilton called it "the hottest news that has come from the Isabella Point area yet" since the flushcoating is the first major surface work ever done on the road—and there's been a road on the point as far back as 1897.

Septic Tank Fails

Health Hazard Nanaimo Issue

NANAIMO — Failure of a septic tank installation in the Queenswood Heights area, just outside the western boundary of the city, has created a serious problem. Thirteen homes are connected to the tank, which has permitted offensive effluent to escape on the surface, thereby creating a health and amenity hazard for the neighborhood.

The situation was discussed at a meeting Thursday between residents of the area and Dr. C. J. MacKenzie, Nanaimo health unit director; C. F. Newcome, chief commissioner of the Greater Nanaimo water and sewerage board; Bruce Tait, the board's consulting engineer, and Nanaimo aldermen George Bryce and Bus MacDonald.

An attempt will be made to establish legal liability for the failure of the tank before any definite plans for alternative sewage disposal systems are made.

'Pink Card' Fraud Bared

A high-pressure auto insurance scheme — that involved selling temporary coverage to U.S. motorists in Canada when they didn't need it—was blown sky-high yesterday by a California businessman.

S. S. Stephens of Sherman Oaks, Calif., complained to B.C. and Washington officials that a company had sold him temporary insurance for his car even though his own policy provided adequate coverage in this country.

He—and many other visitors—have been bilked into buying the coverage on pretext that cars will be impounded without it.

Signs posted on Highway 99, approaching Blaine from the south, state that, "If you do not have a pink card in B.C., your car is subject to impoundment." An office, set up in a trailer, is selling the policies, Mr. Stephens said. He paid $5 for his four-day coverage.

Winter Grants Tighter?

Fine Print Crucial To Ottawa's Nod

(Colonist Staff Writer)

Elation among municipal officials here at the federal government's announcement of continued winter work incentive grants for another year may be premature.

Unofficial word here yesterday was that the federal government will not exhibit the largesse which was evident last winter in its ready approval of all and sundry municipal projects.

Like a lenient parent, Ottawa last winter seemed to wink a fatherly eye at some of its own winter works ground rules.

This winter, simply by pointing to the fine print, it could save millions of dollars in line with its current austerity program, and according to some well-informed sources it will.

The hitch comes in a clause which defines the qualifications for approved incentive grant projects. They must be works which would not otherwise be carried out.

This was inserted into the scheme to prevent municipalities from simply using incentive grants for work they planned on carrying out anyway.

Create New Work

Intent of the senior government was to force municipalities to create new work and, hence, new jobs.

But last winter municipalities found the fine print was getting only cursory attention from approval officials and the arrival of the final go-ahead signal on some jobs even surprised the people who had submitted them.

Cities which adhered to the letter and spirit of the regulations (Victoria was one of them) occasionally even raised the cry of "unfair" at those which didn't.

Strict interpretation of the regulations may cost Victoria $75,000 on the parking garage project alone, and could add $25,000 to the cost of a new juvenile home proposed by Greater Victoria municipalities.

A special bylaw providing for the financing of the parking garage was passed almost 11 months ago and construction of the new juvenile home has been held up specifically in the hope that winter work grants will be available.

Sufficient Money

Financing estimates for the garage indicate there will be sufficient money available with a little to spare.

Ald. Michael Griffin, chairman of the city's parking commission, said last night he was not surprised to hear the federal government might insist on rigid adherence to conditions.

"This is what I expected," he said, "I don't know how it will affect the garage.

"I rather suspect it will make it rather tough for us but I will have to wait to see what happens.

"It appears now that we will be all right, but mind you, it would make it just that more comfortable if we did have it and we want to save money for downtown businessmen if we can."

A cost analysis prepared by the parking commission recently esitmated the cost of land purchase and construction of the garage at $314,000 —$71,000 less than the $385,000 allowed for the work in the bylaw.

A 400-car garage also included in the bylaw will be constructed before the grants become available.

A Saanich project which would probably qualify under a careful-scrutiny policy is a proposed municipal golf course at Beaver Lake. It probably wouldn't be built without the winter works grant.

But a vast sewage scheme in the Burnside-Tillicum-Glanford area might not fare so well.

Jobs on Hand For Skilled Men

The up-Island employment picture this week is one of job opportunities for skilled workers and job searching for untrained laborers.

While there is no boom in employment, the situation generally is good, with National Employment Service offices reporting only a hard core of persons looking for work.

BEST YEAR

In Courtenay, the construction industry is having its best year since the 1956-57 period, but NES officials warned they will turn newcomers away if there is a rush of workers looking for employment.

"We're holding our own. There's a shortage of skilled carpenters but a surplus of laborers. The situation is healthy but not such that we can cope with an influx of people," said an NES official.

LITTLE TROUBLE

The Nanaimo office reported that "any well-skilled person with a trade will have little difficulty finding a job. There is no shortage of workers and employment is remaining fairly stable."

A Port Alberni NES official said jobs are available for experienced loggers and lumbermen. "There is a demand for skilled labor and no demand for unskilled," he said.

NEVER CLEAR

"The economy is very good here. The number of persons seeking work is way down but we're never clear. There's always a hard core of unemployed."

At Duncan, sawmills were working to capacity and production and employment were at a high level but there was no demand for skilled loggers at the moment.

There was a shortage of waitresses, stenographers and housekeepers, said the NES official at Duncan.

Suitcase Sleuths Dig Deep To Nab 'Lay' Smugglers

By TED PULFORD

Customs investigators have begun poking deeper than ever into the luggage of homecoming Canadians in an attempt to stave off an upsurge in amateur smuggling.

The suitcase sleuths fear that disgruntled Canadian travellers, unhappy over recently-imposed restrictions on duty free imports, will start taking matters into their own hands.

Local customs men — who can almost spot a bulge in your pocket before the ferry ties up at the wharf—are nevertheless delighted to see Canadians utilize their legitimate exemptions to the fullest extent.

First off, they point out, a traveller should know the limits imposed by the law. They can be simply stated.

Every Canadian is allowed to bring back $25 worth of U.S. merchandise, free of duty, in any four-month period. And that's the limit.

Annual limits have no meaning and only create confusion.

Speaking for his harried investigators, collector R. A. Marquis said yesterday his office receives scores of phone calls each day from would-be travellers anxious to know the regulations.

ALL AT ONCE?

"Because they are allowed to buy $25 worth of goods in a 12-month period, they want to know if it can all be bought at once.

"The answer is no. Twenty-five dollars every three months is the maximum."

Because no age-limit is specified for the $25 limit, the baggage probers look with a benign eye on youngsters who wish to declare something.

CLUB FOR POP

It therefore follows, that if Junior can be made to recite a declaration at the border, nobody will prevent him from claiming an exemption on a new golf club for pop.

"As long as Junior can make the declaration, understands the sense of what he is saying and can sign his name to the declaration, its all right with us," Mr. Marquis said.

ENTIRE BROOD

It follows, then, that if you're too old to be tempted by smuggling, the thing to do is to head south with the entire brood. The return trip on the ferry can be devoted to training the youngsters in the niceties of customs regulations.

'Onus on Firms'

Smoke Truce May Go On

The city's two-week truce with operators of Victoria's smoke-producing industries ends Tuesday morning but it could be extended.

"We have had no request for more time from the operators," Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, chairman of the city's smoke advisory committee, said yesterday.

UP TO GROUP

"What will happen in the future will be up to the committee at the meeting.

"We will be given a daily report and a report on each of the operations as to what is being done."

Ald. Edgelow refused to say whether he favors giving industry more time, on the grounds it might influence members of his committee.

NIGHT OR DAY

"I have had operators tell me they wish we would phone them, night or day, when their stacks are breaking the bylaw.

"The onus is on them to make sure they don't break it.

"The ultimate solution would be to have a meter in each smoke stack to check and I think it is going to be a necessary part and parcel of their operations — for their own sakes."

PHONE CALLS

Ald. Edgelow added he had received a number of phone calls from city residents advising him of improvement in the smoke situation.

"They quickly stated it is not to their satisfaction yet, but there has been a definite improvement."

At a meeting between plant operators and the city smoke committee June 26, the operators were given a two-week period to meet the conditions of the bylaw.

CITY AGREED

During that time the city agreed to withhold further prosecutions where infractions were found, but to notify the operators of the infractions.

Since June 26, city smoke inspectors have issued 12 warnings to plant operators, Ald. Edgelow said yesterday.

The two-week truce followed about two weeks of smoke inspections during which 10 charges were laid under the smoke bylaw.

Before that, Ald. Edgelow's committee gave operators almost 11 months—from the day the bylaw was adopted — to meet conditions of the bylaw.

Log Birling In Sooke On Shore!

You won't have to walk to the water's edge to see the log birling contest at this year's All Sooke Day, July 21.

Logging sports officials are bringing the water ashore, along with the logs.

"We're digging a 40-foot-square hole three feet deep, right where all the other events are held," said Stanley Jones, one of the officials.

"We'll put a plastic sheet in it and fill it with water. It'll be easier on the spectators. They used to have to walk a short distance down to Sooke River to see the birling contest."

Products Lack Label

'No National Pride' In Canadian Firms

An indignant city merchant complained that Canadian manufacturers show a "deplorable lack" of national pride when they fail to stamp "made in Canada" on their products.

Commenting on a Daily Colonist report that U.S. visitors were heading home with suitcases full of Japanese-made souvenirs, Lloyd Davies of Spencer's Stores said Canadian manufacturers have nobody to blame but themselves.

RE'S FURIOUS

"It makes me furious," said Mr. Davies as he unwrapped a huge parcel of men's clothing just gathered up from one of his stores.

"Look at this stuff," he said. "Made in Canada by Canadian manufacturers with Canadian labor, but you'd never know it to look at the labels."

Mr. Davies was right. Packaging was good, design was original, but the country of manufacture was missing.

"Other countries don't suffer from the same disease," he said, pulling a large pair of pyjamas out of a bag.

"Malden Hall Sleep Wear, Made in Formosa," the label announced in large letters.

The solution, Mr. Davies said, lies in the hands of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association but "they're lying down on the job."

Footpath Work Starts Sunday

DUNCAN — A work party of 20 members of the Cowichan Fish and Game Association will start on the Cowichan River footpath Sunday, secretary Arnie Williams said yesterday.

He also disclosed the first five miles downstream from Skutz Falls recently were surveyed by chairman Mickey Sharp and member Bruce Devitt of the B.C. Forest Service in their spare time.

NOT UNTIL APRIL

First plans were made by the association for a permanent reserve along the river for the public but not until April this year did provincial officials promise co-operation. Length of the footpath from the White Bridge at Duncan to Hoey Park at Lake Cowichan is approximately 18 miles.

Officers of the association are negotiating with Macmillan, Bloedel and Powell River officials to gain rights-of-way through the company's large timber holdings along the path.

BY END OF 1963

Mr. Williams is confident the path will be ready by the end of next year. He said company officials seem to be interested in allowing the access.

Arrangements for access through private properties in the lower part of the footpath still have to be made but the secretary said, that if private owners are opposed, the path will skirt these areas.

Schools Too Costly Courtenay Decides

COURTENAY — Trustees here are studying modifications to school plans in order that building costs can be reduced.

The board recently rejected a low bid of $125,000 for four rooms and an auditorium at Arden, which they estimated should cost $78,000, and declined to call bids for an identical school in Comox.

Now the plans are to be modified.

In addition, the board will meet its architects Monday to discuss changes in the plans for alterations at Tsolum, estimated at $30,000. The low bid was nearly $38,000 by Harrison and Longland.

Changes in structural detail will be considered in the hope the cost can be reduced by $2,000.

Tsolum work involves a new science room, staff room and enlarging of the administration office.

In Courtenay and Comox, extra classes are to be held in school basements and auditoriums to accomodate students who should be going to Arden elementary and the new elementary at Comox.

SPACE MYSTERY UNLOCKED SOON?

Victoria scientists have written the first chapter in a story that is expected to unlock the secrets of magnetic storms in the outer atmosphere high above the earth's surface.

Within seconds of a U.S. high-altitude hydrogen blast over the Pacific early Monday, sensitive instruments in the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory here recorded a short-lived artificial "storm" in the magnetic field surrounding the earth.

Bernard Caner, in charge of magnetic studies at the observatory on Little Saanich Mountain, said last night records showed the storm lasted 2½ minutes. It was a miniature version in size and duration of the big disturbances caused by solar flares.

In Ottawa, Dr. Kenneth Whitham of the Dominion Observatory hailed the achievement of the Victoria scientists.

PIECE TOGETHER

Similar reports from observatories in other countries are eagerly awaited, said Dr. Whitham, in order to piece together a story of how these magnetic storms originate and how they spread.

"This will tell us a great deal scientifically," he said.

Advised in advance by U.S. authorities of the nominal time of the test blast high over Johnston Island, Mr. Caner and his staff made a careful check of the sensitive magnetometer set to record magnetic disturbances.

The machine was commercially made to specifications by Dr. Paul Serson of the Dominion Observatory in Ottawa.

TIME RECORD

It was installed here in 1957 and recently modified locally for greater sensitivity. The machine automatically records magnetic fluctuations on paper together with an accurate time record.

Scientists here had grown weary of frequent postponements in the high altitude tests, so at about midnight Sunday—two hours before the latest time for the blast received from U.S. authorities—they made a final check and went home to bed.

WITHIN SECONDS

The blast was triggered on schedule—records here show the magnetic disturbances, caused by the high-altitude shot came "within seconds" of the nominal time—and the machine worked perfectly giving what was described as a "clear record."

Mr. Caner said the magnetic storm was "larger than expected."

SINCE THE LAST

But he added the Victoria observatory had no previous experience with high-altitude tests since the last U.S. series was held several years ago, before the magnetic section was in existence here.

However, reports of the magnetic storm from other observatories around the world, expected in Ottawa during

Doctors Wield Fear —Lloyd

REGINA (CP)—Premier Woodrow Lloyd said Friday organized medicine in Saskatchewan is using "fear and threat of discomfort and illness to their patients" as weapons in the dispute between the province's doctors and the government.

He said the "patients have been pushed into the front line of the battle without regard for their needs."

Saskatchewan Attorney-General Robert Walker slipped quietly into Victoria Friday and met privately with B.C. Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Mr. Bonner declined to disclose the purpose of the meeting.

His remarks were included in a statement replying to a petition presented Wednesday at a protest rally here by the Saskatchewan Keep Our Doctors Committee. The committee had asked for the suspension of the controversial Medical Care Insurance Act, which took effect July 1, to pave the way for a negotiated settlement.

RESUME DUTIES

Mr. Lloyd's statement said the committee should urge the doctors to "resume their duties as healers of the sick and pursue their indubitable rights to present their views through normal channels."

"Nothing that the government has done has compelled the doctors to close their door. It was they who made the decision to

SELWYN LLOYD

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan turned a third of his 21-man cabinet out to pasture Friday in one of the most extensive cabinet shuffles since he assumed British leadership after the 1956 Suez crisis.

Selwyn Lloyd, 58, lieutenant of both Macmillan and former prime minister Anthony Eden, was ousted from his post as chancellor of the exchequer.

Other ministers who ended up without jobs were:

OTHER JOBS

Harold Watkinson, 64, defence minister; Viscount Kilmuir, 63, lord chancellor; Sir David Eccles, 59, education minister; Lord Mills, 73, minister without portfolio; Dr. Charles Hill, 59, housing minister, and John Maclay, 57, secretary of state for Scotland.

BUTLER DEPUTY

Richard Butler, once a rival of Macmillan's for leadership of the Conservative party, gave up the home secretary's portfolio. He was formally named deputy prime minister, the first in the Macmillan era, and continues to be responsible for overseeing central African and Common Market affairs.

SUCCEEDS LLOYD

Reginald Maudling, 45, formerly colonial minister, succeeds Lloyd as treasury chief. He has had a decade of ministerial experience and an extensive knowledge of economic affairs.

Duncan Sandys, the Commonwealth relations minister, adds the colonial portfolio to his task, a further indication that Britain's age of empire is drawing to a close.

QUIT CABINET

Peter Thorneycroft, who quit Macmillan's cabinet in 1958 after a quarrel over financial policy and returned in 1960, moves up a rung to become defence minister. He formerly held the aviation portfolio.

Henry Brooke, 59, Lloyd's second in command at the treasury assumes Butler's former responsibilities for Britain's internal security at the home office.

The sweeping cabinet changes were considered inevitable after the series of byelection reverses suffered by the Conservative government.

'Simple' Russians Harass Test Foes

* * *

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Several Russians who described themselves as "simple Soviet citizens" tried to break up a prohibited demonstration by a dozen Western anti-nuclear campaigners in Red Square Friday.

But the Westerners, mostly members of Britain's Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament, held their ground and argued with crowds of Russians for two hours in a scene believed unprecedented here since the 1917 Soviet revolution.

* * *

A single Soviet policeman stood by without interfering—except to show one of the Russians where to take two banners seized from the demonstrators.

The Westerners, here attending the Soviet-sponsored peace congress, went ahead with the demonstration after they were flatly refused permission at a last-minute meeting with Soviet officials.

* * *

They walked quietly from their hotel, the Moskva, to Red Square 400 yards away and began unrolling their banners near the Lenin Mausoleum.

A burly Russian woman of 50 grabbed two of the banners, declaring she was a "simple Soviet citizen," and handed them to two young Russians who also said they were "simple Soviet citizens."

* * *

The demonstrators hastily rolled up their third banner.

A young Russian man asked what was written on the banners. Someone told him the banners protested against both American and Soviet nuclear tests.

"I agree," the young man said — and another Russian began discussing the issue with him.

By this time several hundred Russians were gathered around the Westerners in animated discussion. NBC photographer Frank Bourgholtzer tried to film the crowds but was interrupted by "simple Soviet citizens."

The banners read in English and Russian: "We condemn Anglo-American tests," "we demand no more Russian tests," and "all people act against all tests."

Officials Agree

Market To Link 30 More

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — British and Common Market officials agreed Friday that 30 British dependencies should be associated with the European Economic Community if Britain becomes a member, sources close to the negotiations reported.

The officials were said to have prepared a report to this effect that will be submitted to a ministerial meeting of Britain and the Common Market July 25.

DEPENDENCIES

The dependencies for which association was considered to be the most satisfactory solution are:

1. Africa and the Indian Ocean: Kenya, Gambia, Mauritius, Zanzibar and the Seychelles.

2. Caribbean: Barbados, the Windward Islands (Dominica, Grenada, St. Lucia, St. Vincent), the Leeward Islands (Antigua, Montserrat, St. Christopher-Nevis - Anguilla), British Guiana, British Honduras, the Virgin Islands, Cayman Islands, Turks and Caicos Islands.

TWO OCEANS

3. Atlantic Ocean and Antarctica: The Bahamas, Bermuda, Falkland Islands, St. Helena and dependencies and British Antarctic territories.

4. Pacific Ocean: Fiji, Tonga, Pitcairn, Solomon Islands, Central and Southern Line islands (uninhabited), Gilbert and Ellice islands and New Hebrides.

Commonwealth territories that now are dependent but soon will become independent were considered as though independent for the association purposes. These include Jamaica, Trinidad and Uganda.

Meeting Soon?

Algeria Rivals May Heal Rift

ALGIERS (Reuters)—Algerian leaders appeared Friday night on the verge of calling a meeting to settle the rift that has split the provisional government.

The meeting was expected to consist of either a session of the National Council (parliament) or a big congress of the National Liberation Front.

The decision on the meeting was expected to be made within the next 48 hours by a conference of the political and military leaders of Algeria's six military districts.

ONLY SOLUTION

The council meeting has been proposed by dissident Vice-Premier Mohammed Ben Bella as the only solution to his dispute with the Algerian provisional government headed by Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda.

Ben Bella's faction claims Ben Khedda's government lacks support from the 70-member council which is the legislative body of the Liberation Front which led predominantly - Moslem Algeria to independence from France.

Red Tests Must Be Last

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union served official notice Friday it feels free to conduct another series of nuclear tests. It said the United States tested first and the Soviet Union must be the last.

The warning, in an official Tass news agency statement, came only four days before the 17-nation disarmament conference meets in Geneva.

The official statement did not say when Russia might resume nuclear testing.

Military Clash Provoked

Explosion Any Moment Red China Warns India

PEKING (Reuters)—Communist China declared Friday its long-standing border quarrel with India "has developed to a point where an explosion may be touched off at any moment."

A Chinese foreign ministry spokesman made the warning in giving reporters copies of a Peking note to New Delhi charging that "India aims not only to assert its territorial claims on China by armed forces but also deliberately to provoke a military clash on the border so as to create an anti - Chinese atmosphere."

(In New Delhi meanwhile, India declared Friday that Communist China had set up nine new outposts in the Ladakh area of Kashmir in recent weeks.

(An Indian protest note said that "aggressive and provocative" Chinese military activities in the area created the threat of a clash "at any moment.")

REGINA (CP)—New Democratic Party national leader T. C. Douglas said Friday night he will move to Ottawa in August but indicated he would consider moving to British Columbia should he be elected in a byelection.

Mr. Douglas said in an interview he would be "proud" to be a candidate in British Columbia. Earlier Friday, Erhart Regier announced he was going to resign his Burnaby-Coquitlam seat to allow Mr. Douglas to stand in a byelection.

WAS DEFEATED

The NDP leader was defeated in the June 18 election in a bid for the Regina seat.

Mr. Regier's announcement was made at a caucus of 19 NDP members of Parliament in Winnipeg, which Mr. Douglas also attended.

Canadian Heads For A-Ban Talk

MONTREAL (CP) — Lt.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canada's chief delegate to the disarmament talks in Geneva, left by air Friday night for a resumption of negotiations, saying he is "hopeful" a settlement can be reached to end nuclear testing.

He said the talks will resume Monday with discussion of a proposal by Mexico that a test deadline — "say January, 1963" —be set.

Troops Join Nuclear Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission announced Friday that army troop manoeuvres will be held in conjunction with atmospheric nuclear tests within the next few days at the Nevada test site.

The AEC said the troops will conduct "conventional artillery firing." Low - yield, above-ground nuclear systems testing will be held at the same time.

Island Yachtsman Lost On Atlantic Voyage

HALIFAX (CP) — RCAF search and rescue said last night shipping between here and Bermuda has been asked to keep a look-out for the 40-foot schooner Carinae which left Chester, N.S., June 15 bound for San Diego, Calif.

The vessel, manned by Ivo Thiergarten of Campbell River, B.C., and Bill Johnson of England, was to have called at Bermuda and San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Search officials here said the two expected to be in Bermuda 10 days after leaving Chester. They are believed to have been delayed by headwinds, they said.

The two-masted vessel has a radio receiver but no transmitting apparatus. She has an auxiliary engine but relies mainly on sails.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actor Billy Gray, who portrayed the teen-aged son of the Anderson family in the Father Knows Best television series, drew a six-month sentence Friday for possession of marijuana. Superior Judge Edward Brand also placed Gray, 24, on probation for three years.
